Sen. Draheim Calls Nelson 'Little Dictator'

Remarks Come in
Bitter Speech
On Senate Floor

MADISON (AP) — The Legislature's Joint Finance Committee co-chairman, Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, today called Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson "a little dictator with whom no body should disagree."

Draheim's remarks came in a floor speech in which he bitterly assailed the governor for his evaluation of the finance committee's work.

Nelson said Monday the Republican-controlled group had been responsible in cutting $12 million from his $53 million budget.

The governor especially criticized cuts in University of Wisconsin and state college faculty salaries.

Unnecessary Attack
Draheim called Nelson's remarks an "unnecessary partisan attack upon a legislative group that feels its responsibility to the Wisconsin taxpayer and is trying to do a good job in holding down spending."

The senator said his desk was full of "pressure mail" sent by groups insisting that Nelson's campaign promises in respect to faculty pay and other matters be carried out.

"But we are not going to yield to that pressure," Draheim added. Then the senator suggested that Nelson's criticism made it clear that "he has set himself up as a little dictator with whom nobody should disagree."

Sen. Horace Wilkie, D-Madison, a member of Draheim's committee, replied to the co-chairman's remarks.

Wilkie said the Joint Finance group had taken a "major step toward establishing the university and colleges as second-rate institutions."

The Madison lawmaker said Democratic members on the committee did not support the budget cuts because they viewed them as "false Republican economy moves."

Man Dies, 8 Hurt
In Tunnel Blast
NORTHBORO, Mass. (AP) — An explosion rocked an underground water tunnel today, killing one worker and injuring eight. There were 22 men trapped 400 feet down for more than 30 minutes.

The workmen were brought to the surface by a rescue team which sped to their aid at the end of the tunnel, three miles from the entrance shaft. All were taken to hospitals in police and other rescue ambulances.

Marcello to be Deported
GUATEMALA (AP) — President Miguel Ydigoras today ordered the deportation of Carlo Marcello, New Orleans underworld boss who was expelled from the United States last month.

The president also fired Ranulfo Gonzalez Ovalle, chief of Guatemala's special investigation department, for freeing Marcello yesterday without consulting his police superiors. He ordered him arrested.

Faces Trial As Leader Of Revolt

ALGIERS (AP) — Forces loyal to Gen. Charles de Gaulle crushed the four-day army revolt today with hardly a shot. The man who led the insurrection, Gen. Maurice Challe, surrendered to face trial and possibly a death sentence.

Three other retired generals who joined in leading the mutiny — Raoul Salan, Edmond Jourhad and Andre Zeller — were not accounted for. One unconfirmed report put them at a Foreign Legion camp at Zarelda, 25 miles from Algiers.

The French ministry of information said 56-year-old Challe landed at a field near Paris. He will be brought to trial on charges of organizing an insurrection and usurping power. Similar charges have been placed against the three other generals and three colonels.

The government has not disclosed whether Challe will be tried as a soldier or as a civilian. On this issue could depend whether he faces a firing squad or the guillotine — although the possibility of a death sentence was largely discounted in Paris.

Ended Abruptly
The uprising ended with the bewildering abruptness with which it began Saturday.

Thousands of Europeans gathered in the forum in the center of Algiers as rumors swept the city that loyal troops were preparing an attack.

The mutinous generals could give little encouragement to the French settlers, who had hoped De Gaulle's plan of self-determination for Algeria was doomed by the insurrection.

The generals attempted to speak to the crowd but found the microphones were dead. They then boarded trucks guarded by paratroopers and fled the city.

Cordiner Spurns Demand He Quit As GE Chairman

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (A) — Ralph J. Cordiner today spurned a stockholder's demand that he resign as chairman of General Electric Co.

In doing so, he disclosed that twice — in 1959 and again last year — he had instructed GE and outside counsel to investigate whether he was linked to recent anti-trust violations and if they "had any reservations" to report them to company directors.

Although he did not expressly say so, the implication was that they had found him blameless. However, Cordiner said he accepted "ultimate responsibility" for offenses of subordinates.

The development came as GE's 68th annual meeting, with more than 2,600 of the 450,000 shareholders attending, dragged into its third hour with a handful of critics quizzing Cordiner at length.

On several occasions, the audience registered strong support of the 61-year-old chairman, once by standing vote and another time by applause.

An arch foe of Cordiner, unionist James B. Carey, and Wilma Soss of New York City, a professional meeting-goer, equipped with a megaphone, led the barrage of criticism.

Living Cost Called Same as February's

Some Items Edge Higher
But Others Move Downward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs were unchanged in March from the record high in February. The government reported today that its index stayed at 127.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is 1.4 per cent above a year earlier.

Prices on some consumer items were higher in March than in February, but others were lower. The changes cancelled out each other to leave the index unchanged.

Most price changes were relatively small. Prices for food and transportation, especially used cars, declined. Food averaged two-tenths of one per cent lower for the month, although 3 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Somewhat higher prices were recorded during the month for housing and reading-recreation. The latter raise was primarily personally believe the big jet due to higher movie admission charges.

Few Pay Adjustments
Robert J. Myers, deputy labor statistics commissioner, said a slight living cost increase had been expected in March. He said the fact the index remained steady was symptomatic of the stability that has been continuing in consumer prices for the last six months.

Myers said a slight index decline is possible in April since indications are that consumers are paying a bit less for fuel, gas, oil, line, milk and apparel, although the new $44 billion defense money somewhat higher prices for services and for fruits and vegetables.

Because of the stable March index, there are no major wage adjustments due under union contracts linking pay rates to changes in the government index.

An increase in working time was responsible for a pickup in the average after-tax earnings of factory workers. This average rose about 65 cents during March to $80.89 per week for the factory worker heading a family of four.

Federal Program Factor
In the food category there were lower grocery store tags for eggs, fresh vegetables, dairy products and meats in March. Eggs declined by nearly 5 per cent because of greater supplies, but egg prices are about 17 per cent greater than a year earlier.

Some effect of President Kennedy's program to purchase foods for distribution to the needy showed up elsewhere.

Want B70 to be Pushed Ahead
As Top Bomber
WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force leaders testified today they personally believe the big jet due to higher movie admission charges.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of staff, both told senators that the White House and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, had overruled their recommendations to push the B70 as the nation's future manned bomber.

Sen. Dennis Chavez, D-N.M., presiding at a public hearing on the new $44 billion defense money bill, told both witnesses he wanted "your candid opinions."

What a Difference a Pose Makes. Both of these pictures of Democratic party leaders were taken after they had breakfast with President Kennedy to discuss the Cuban situation, the French-Algerian crisis and the developments in Laos. They declined comment on what the President said. Seated from left are House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. Standing from left are Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Arrested as He Is About
To Board Plane on Way Home

COQUILHATVILLE, the Congo prevented all civilians from entering the building and ordered passengers waiting at the airport of Katanga was arrested here to-day by soldiers of the Congolese central government as he was on his way to his plane to leave Coquilhatville for home.

Tshombe had walked out on a conference Tuesday of anti-Communist Congolese leaders in this capital of Equator Province. Evariste Kimba, and two other charging President Joseph Kasavubu of the central government, they started to leave the terminal building to board their plane.

Today 20 Congolese soldiers surrounded Tshombe's party in the Coquilhatville terminal building, airport. A Leopoldville security officer left was a meeting of all Congo factions except that headed by Antoine Gizenga.

Others in the Tshombe motorcade were turned back from the airport. The conference that Tshombe

Tshombe's chief complaint was an agreement Kasavubu reached with the U.N. Command calling for immediate withdrawal from the Congo of all foreign advisers not under the central government's authority.

Belgian advisers are prominent in Katanga's government and Belgian and other white mercenaries serve in Tshombe's Katanga army.

Last month Tshombe and the Congo's other anti-Communist leaders agreed in principle to a confederation of Congolese states. But Tshombe's walkout appeared to doom such a confederation.

Shot Heard Over Phone
Big Factor in Finding
Man Murdered Wife
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The testimony of a witness who heard a shot over the telephone was a key factor in the murder conviction of Troy Lee Webb, 22.

Webb admitted firing the bullet, but said he did so when he saw Roy Gene Sample, 22, and Webb's wife "heading for a bedroom" in a "shot, a caliber bullet in the chest."

Other witnesses testified Mrs. Webb was on the front porch talking on the telephone at the time of the shooting last Aug. 26. They said Sample was seated inside the house with the Webbs' 3-month-old child at his side.

Mrs. Roberta Pitts, a friend, testified she held a 15-minute telephone conversation with Mrs. Webb that ended with a "shot, a scream, then feet running and silence."

The jury deliberated 45 minutes yesterday before returning a guilty verdict and recommending a 99-year prison sentence.

Paxton Invited to Testify at Inquiry
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating price fixing in the electrical equipment industry today invited Robert Paxton, recently retired president of the General Electric Co., to testify next week.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate anti-trust and Monopoly Subcommittee, wrote Paxton that if he declined the invitation, it was very possible he might be subpoenaed.

The official, Ranulfo Gonzalez Valle, said he defied the order and threatened his police superior yesterday with a gun and a hand grenade.

His superior, Col. Francisco Ardon Fernandez, denied Gonzalez's story. The police director general said he served the arrest warrant on Gonzalez. He said he had not seen the investigation chief since.

Gonzalez Ovalle's imagination produces novels," he said. Apparently, Gonzalez Ovalle's arrest was temporary, because he later met with reporters and gave

Asks Permanent Program

President Proposes Additional U. S. Loans to College Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today proposed an expanded program of help for needy college and university students. Kennedy also asked that the loan program be put on a permanent basis instead of allowing it to expire June 30, 1962.

In identical letters to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as president of the senate and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Kennedy said the national defense education act "has served the nation well" but the "need today to improve and strengthen our education system is still great."

Opportunity for All
Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said in a letter which Kennedy sent along with his own that the objective of the student loan program should be to assure that no student of ability is denied an opportunity for higher education because of financial need.

In addition to expanding the student loan program Kennedy proposed that the number of new federal financial fellowships be increased annually be increased from 1,500 to 5,000, with up to 2,500 going to persons accepted by institutions establishing new or expanded graduate programs. The remainder would be awarded to persons selected by the commissioner of education for study in graduate programs.

Kennedy, in still another recommendation, asked for a three-year extension of the program for financial assistance for strengthening science, mathematics and modern foreign language instruction in elementary and secondary schools. He also suggested that Kennedy recommended that there be no fixed ceiling on various phases of the National Defense Education Act. Instead, the amount would be determined through an annual appropriation.

Under the present program students are forgiven up to one-half of their loans when they become teachers in elementary and secondary schools. Kennedy asked that this be extended to include borrowers who become teachers in colleges and universities.

He also suggested raising the ceiling on the annual federal contribution to the student loan fund of any one school from $250,000 to $300,000.

Loans For 200,000
So far under the program more than 200,000 students in 1,400 institutions have received educational loans. In his letter to Johnson and Rayburn, Kennedy said there still is a critical shortage of teachers, and loan funds for college students are still needed.

"The importance of scientific and technological advance is increasing," Kennedy wrote. "It will take the combined efforts of both our public and private school systems to meet the challenge facing us."

U.S. Studying Ways Of Dealing With Regime of Castro

Use of Military Force Reported To be One of Several Plans

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER — WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration is reported to be considering possible use of military force against the Castro regime in Cuba if other means eventually fail to put an end to the island's pro-Communist rule.

The latest evidence of this support came Tuesday from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a Republican party leader, who had just conferred with Kennedy for an hour.

Some officials believe that as the situation develops following the unsuccessful rebel invasion attempt last week, other American governments might ultimately be willing to participate even in military operations against Castro. The United States is trying to convince them through diplomatic consultation that Cuba as a Communist base is a threat to the entire Western Hemisphere.

None of the possible lines of anti-Castro actions under consideration by President Kennedy are near firm decision.

Naval blockade—In Kennedy's view this would be an act of war and probably not a very effective move since a blockade is aimed at strangling a nation slowly.

Economic embargo—A partial embargo already is in effect. The greatest single diplomatic disadvantage of a total embargo is that it would subject the United States to propaganda charges of starving the Cuban people. Cubans still can buy foodstuffs and medicines from the United States.

Another anti-Castro operation by Cuban refugees—some authorities think such an action might still be the way out for the United States if the operation could be properly organized and supported on a large scale.

Kennedy reportedly is pleased with the success he has thus far achieved in rallying bipartisan political support for a tough and determined U. S. anti-Castro policy.

Stand United

"I think it is time for all Americans to stand united behind the President in support of whatever the unsuccessful rebel invasion attempt becomes necessary to defend freedom," Rockefeller said.

Prior to his meeting with Rockefeller, Kennedy had conferred with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Words of backing also were relayed from former President Harry S. Truman, Eisenhower's Democratic predecessor, by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

After meeting with Truman in Kansas City Tuesday Johnson said Truman supports a "course of courage" in the handling of world crises.

Castro to Halt Public Queries Of Invaders

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime announced today it will halt the televised parade of captured invaders, who soon may march before his firing squads.

The last public interrogation was set for tonight after a session in which the son of an anti-Castro leader told his captors he was duped about chances of the April 17 invasion but that it was not his father who deceived him.

The son of Manuel Antonio de Varona conceded in a telecast monitored at Key West that he was deceived when told the Cuban people would rise against Castro. He made no reply when asked if he knew "your father has asked for the open intervention of the United States with its submarines, with its invading troops."

The elder De Varona is a member of the Revolutionary Council which coordinated the invasion.

Young De Varona, wearing hornrimmed eyeglasses, argued spiritedly with interrogators. He asked them if they felt so certain about a public's support of the Castro regime, why did they not hold an election.

While Cuban inquisitors peppered the invasion captives with loaded questions before TV cameras, the first airline passengers arriving in Florida since the conflict were wary in expressing themselves as thankful they were able to leave Cuba.

Most of 86 persons who got off a plane at Miami were Cuban nationals. Some of them scurried away from newsmen seeking interviews. Others refused to identify themselves when telling of life in Cuba under active war conditions.

Men Who Skipped Polio Shots Warned by Doctor

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin men—two-thirds of whom skipped Salk anti-polio shots — were warned Tuesday that they are more likely to be the victims of the disease strikes their families this year.

Dr. Josef Prezler, chief of the communicable disease division of the State Public Health Department, said Tuesday that while only one-third of the state's men had the shots, about 70 per cent of the state's school-age children have had three or four of the protective vaccine shots. He said that about half the women in the state have been immunized against polio.

Three This Year

Prezler noted there have been only three polio cases reported in the state this year. Only one of them was of the paralytic type.

Oil Barge Explodes On Mississippi River

Bridge at Baton Rouge Extensively Damaged, No Fatalities Reported

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—An empty oil barge exploded and extensively damaged the Mississippi River bridge here today. There were no known fatalities.

The bridge was closed to traffic four hours. Later, one lane was opened to two-way traffic.

The barge was one of five being towed by the tugboat Ole Miss, owned by the Valley Towing Co. of Greenville, Miss. The tug started to sink its crew of 10 or 12 transferred to another tug.

Gaping Holes

The explosion ripped two gaping holes in the thick concrete on the westbound traffic lane of the three-quarter mile long bridge. Part of the exploded barge landed on the bridge, damaging a state police car.

An oil slick caught fire following the explosion. State police said first reports that the barges were drifting loose and on fire were erroneous.

The other four barges were taken in tow by another tug. Two of them carried 117 new cars.

Bridge tender Monroe Thurmond said he believed lightning may have touched off oil fumes on the barge that exploded.

The bridge serves as a main east-west artery for both motor and rail traffic. Railroad engineers planned to survey damage before resuming train service.

Franksters Persuade 6 Recruits to Join Fake Cuban Rebels

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — "Cuba, Si. Castro, No," read the sign of the bearded, Spanish-speaking student.

"Join the Cuban revolutionary council now..." read the placard carried by his three gun-toting companions.

College student David Book said he and his colleagues were astonished to get six "recruits" for rebel forces.

Their prank, he explained, was aimed at determining how townspeople were keeping up with the news.

What worries us," he told the Associated Press, "is the large number of men who have had no protection against polio." He said many of those unprotected are on farms or in other relatively remote areas. "They are people the doctors just never see," he said.

"An educational campaign with the help of other public agencies is the only way to reach them," the doctor said.

Only six years ago in 1955, Wisconsin was hit hard by polio with 139 deaths out of 1,853 reported cases, 975 of them paralytic. The rate has been on the decline since the introduction of Salk vaccine in 1957. The state had only 41 polio cases last year. Twenty-eight of the cases were paralytic and there was one death.

Claim Interpol Isn't Helping

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The World Jewish Congress charged Tuesday that Interpol—the international criminal police organization—has refused to try to track down Nazis accused of crimes against humanity.

The congress submitted a complaint to a council of nongovernmental organizations which bears statements and makes them a part of the records of the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

Dr. Maurice L. Perle, international affairs chief of the congress, coupled his complaint with the charge that governments were refusing to extradite war criminals on the grounds that they are political refugees.

Byrnes Sees Cuba as Danger To U.S. Security

This Country Must Determine Whether To Meet For, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John W. Byrnes, House Republican Policy Committee chairman, said Tuesday that the Cuban situation "is fraught with danger to this country's own security."

"Sooner or later this country must meet the test we failed to meet last week in Cuba," Byrnes said in a memo to constituents.

Byrnes represents the 8th Congressional District of Wisconsin.

"Whether or not we have the will and courage to meet head-on the brutal challenge of a foe determined to take over all of Latin America," he said.

Bitterly Critical

Byrnes was bitterly critical of the execution of the abortive rebel invasion of Cuba which he said strengthening the position of Communist government in Cuba, and the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights also had in Europe, Africa, the Far East asked that the prisoners be

He added that the Cuban situation "can be met successfully about American leadership among only by a united people under a our allies and (4) just for the national leadership which not only Kremlin's propaganda mul."

Cubans Disagree on Fate of Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba's sources said today there are officials may be divided in a parently is one clique, headed by struggle over the life-or-death fate of 548 prisoners reported captured in last week's unsuccessful invasion.

Latin American diplomatic Prime Minister Fidel Castro himself appeared on both sides of the fence in a Sunday television appearance.

Held as Hostages

"Let them not ask for clemency," he declared in discussing the prisoners. But at another point he hinted they might be spared to be held as hostages against any further invasion attempts.

The diplomatic sources said their information on the struggle came from a person in Havana who had been in contact with the situation.

The presidents of six Latin American nations have joined in an appeal for clemency.

(1) Pope John XXIII, the Organization of American States (OAS), and the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights also had in Europe, Africa, the Far East asked that the prisoners be Dorticos said Tuesday Cuba "will never violate humanitarian norms" in dealing with prisoners.

He was responding to an OAS appeal for humanitarian treatment for the prisoners.

The possibility that Dorticos might be among those favoring moderation, the sources said, is further indicated in the tone of his reply to the OAS plea.

In naming Raul Castro as a reported advocate of immediate execution, diplomatic sources noted that he supervised the execution of 71 persons in Santiago, Cuba, one morning shortly after his brother came to power. Raul Castro heads the Cuban armed forces.

Against Executions

Another argument against executions, the sources said, is the traditional Latin American revulsion against capital punishment for any crime, let alone political.

The Castro regime's execution of more than 600 persons, the sources said, already is one of the principal black marks against it in the eyes of Latin Americans.

Any new wave of executions would only increase this revulsion and make more likely the possibility of joint hemispheric action against Cuba, they said.

YOU MAY BE MISSING SOMETHING

It is important at this time to explain why Chiropractic stands out from all others as a separate, distinct healing science and what constitutes its practice and its legal definition.

Chiropractic, in brief, is legally defined as the science and art of adjusting bony articulations that have become misaligned (subluxated), more especially those of the spine for the purpose of giving freedom of action to nerves that may cause pain or abnormal function (disease).

The trend of all healing is toward Chiropractic. Records of the past few years show that medical research workers have ascribed interference to nerve flow as the fundamental cause of 720 definite diseases. More will be added to this number until such time that all healable diseases will agree that basically disease is caused by nerve interference. No medicine or surgery does any good until health is restored. Chiropractic is the only health art that will deal more with the brain and nerves and their relationship to health.

Those who are now adopting and enjoying the benefits of Chiropractic in their health program are utilizing the health service of the future.

Asks Study of Prepaid Dental Care Program

Patients Growing
Restless Over
Costs, Society Told

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dr. Herbert O. Hoppe of Milwaukee told a convention session of the State Dental Society that dentists should start thinking about establishing prepaid dental care plans similar to medical programs offered by the State Medical Society.

"Our patients are growing restless," Dr. Hoppe said. "Their anger over dental costs is growing."

Dr. Hoppe recommended that the organization should make a study of all factors involved in establishing a state dental service corporation.

Free to Go

"I'm not looking for a crash program in this field," he said. "Any plan must effectively close the door to 'panel' operations. The patient should be free to go to any licensed dentists in the state."

Dr. Hoppe said "panel" operations would limit the prepaid dental care program to a select group of dentists. He said that unless the state organization acts first there is a possibility some organizations, perhaps labor unions, might set up their own panel of dentists under their own plan.

Dr. C. Gordon Watson, assistant secretary for administrative affairs of the American Dental Association, took a similar position.

Approved by Union

He said it would be wrong not to believe that at some time in the future dentists will be approached by a union with "X" dollars to spend and ask for dental care plan for its members. Dr. Watson said dentists should be ready for such a question.

Dr. Watson said a dental care plan is now operating successfully in the state of New York but that others in different states have met some problems with government officials reluctant to go ahead with the plans.

The nation will need another 134,000 dentists by 1975 if the present doctor-patient ratio is to be maintained, Dr. Watson said, and if the demand for dental care stays within present experience.

Other speakers at the session were Dr. Adolph H. Hutter of Fond du Lac, Dr. M. C. Arra, dental director of the State Board of Health, and S. L. Horman, vice president and director of agencies of the Time Insurance Co.

New York Legislators To be Paid Increase

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has approved a 50 per cent increase in state legislators' pay, raising it to $12,500 a year by 1963.

The legislative leaders will receive $29,000 annually.

Rockefeller signed the pay-raise bill without comment. His action on the bill was announced by his office.

New York's legislators, already the highest-paid state lawmakers in the nation, had been paid $7,500 in salary and $1,000 in expenses. The expense allowance was raised during the 1961 legislative session to $2,500, effective immediately. The bill Rockefeller signed raises the base salary to $10,000, effective Jan. 1, 1963.

Mr. Nusbaum's Fight

The fussing at Madison about the work of Mr. Nusbaum as state commissioner of administration and the financial operations of his agency can be marked down as literal sniping of the partisan politicians. It is perhaps an inevitable consequence of the close political balance that exists in the statehouse, with the executive branch ruled by Democrats, and the legislature controlled by Republicans. Mr. Nusbaum is Gov. Nelson's chief lieutenant. The Republicans regard their 1960 legislative elections as a mandate for close inspection of appropriations matters, as they no doubt have a right to do.

On the face of it, the cutting of Mr. Nusbaum's comparatively big appropriations proposals doesn't affect his operations level one whit, whatever Sen. Wilkie and the other Democrats are protesting. The 38 personnel positions deleted from the new budget represent manpower not now on the Nusbaum staff. They were requests for additional positions, or cancellations of existing jobs that had been vacant so long that even a politically detached person might have some legitimate doubts about their need.

On the other hand, the sniping about some of the alleged errors in arithmetic in the Nusbaum budget would be marked down as flyspecking, in the vernacular, by most persons not moved by partisan purposes.

It is doubtless awkward for this officer whose agency includes scores of professional accountants to have laymen from the legislature discover errors in his money computations, but it must also be noted in fairness that these legislators examined the Nusbaum budget with a rigor that was accorded no other agency. We have no doubt that other officials might be embarrassed at the disclosure of similar errors, under examination of comparable intensity.

The root of Mr. Nusbaum's difficulty, we would surmise, lies in the fact that Gov. Nelson has attempted to make of his department a kind of political show-piece during the last couple of years. Under such circumstances Mr. Nusbaum might have been wise to come prepared to show some tangible results in the way of verification of the publicity releases and campaign stump boasts.

This young officer has come far in a couple of years, from the obscurity of a minor civil service job to one of the most powerful and conspicuous places in the Wisconsin bureaucracy. He is finding that there are some thorns among the roses of statehouse politics at a time of nearly balanced popular support of two vigorous and attentive political parties.

Arab Refugees Again

A United States representative to the United Nations, Francis Plimpton, offered a resolution last week which, he said, was "devoid of controversy." The glass walls of the U.N. building began rattling at the response.

The resolution suggested repatriation of the Arab refugees camped outside of Israel from whence they fled years ago. An Israeli spokesman immediately charged that "this represents a serious deterioration in the American position." Nothing was mentioned about possible Arab resettlement of the refugees in Arab countries. There also was something about the "right" of the refugees to property back in Israel.

The Arabs weren't happy, either. The representative from Saudi Arabia blister-ingly charged that the United States couldn't put a man into outer space because it was more interested in "putting Israel into the inner space of the Middle East." The United States was really not interested in the refugees at all, said this spokesman. The Russians were, he said, blandly ignoring the fact that the U.S. pays 90 per cent of the cost of the refugees who are ever increasing by birth, not expulsion from Israel.

It would seem that the best solution to an unjust situation would be resettlement in Arab countries and a realistic payment of property claims considerably below the $12 billion the Arabs propose. But one thing is sure: any resolution mentioning the Arab refugees is not "devoid of controversy."

Presumably Mr. Plimpton found it out.

If Robots Reach the Courtroom

Since the legal profession deals largely with problems of human beings, it would appear to be the last area to be invaded by robots, calculating machines, or mechanical brains. However, the lawyers in Washington, D.C., have been attending forum meetings designed to give them some idea of the legal questions that might arise with the increasing use of so-called electronic brains. Admittedly the time is a long way off when clients seeking legal information will be confronted in the lawyer's office by a huge electronic brain ready to answer his legal questions if he pushes the proper buttons.

Nevertheless, the legal business is confronted with many problems related to computers, simply because most people in every walk of life have, or soon will have, some contact with these machines. Some of the legal questions which are bound to arise and must somehow be answered may include the following: If data provided by an electrical computer is involved in a lawsuit how much can the attorney or the court rely upon the information which it produces? If the information is challenged in a lawsuit, who could be held responsible if the information proved false? The machine cannot be sued, or jailed. Who then is responsible? Should it be the firm which owns the computer? The person who fed the data to the machine? The system designer who supplied the information on what data should be fed to the machine?

It is quite likely that there will be many cases tried, decided and appealed before final answers come to some of those questions. In the meantime, prospects are for an interesting period for lawyers.

Follow Directions in Using Chemicals

The use of chemicals in agriculture has made tremendous gains during the last 25 years. In attempting to picture this change, Arden Sherf, professor of plant pathology, Cornell University, points out that grandpa used to hitch his horses to a machine consisting of a barrel on a cart to spray his crops. Today his grandson doesn't need to go through the messy business of stirring lime into the bluestone solution in preparation for his trip to the field. The young farmer today buys a pre-measured package of powder which he drops into his tractor-drawn sprayer or blower and covers five times the acreage in one-half the time used by his grandfather.

Without these modern chemical preparations and the speedy means of applying them, Prof. Sherf says that the quality of vegetables would be unacceptable to American housewives today and further, the yields would be greatly reduced. The result would be higher prices in the food store.

Prof. Sherf's article appears in the National Agricultural Chemicals Association News. This publication is devoted to furthering the proper use of chemicals in agricultural production. The current issue is emphasizing the need for care in the handling of farm chemicals and there is need for this warning since many serious accidents have resulted from misuse of these valuable aids. Not long ago the cranberry growers of Wisconsin suffered severe financial loss because some of the growers had used chemicals contrary to the instructions which are clearly given on the packages of modern chemicals. This magazine points out, in an ad which is reproduced from another publication, that the most important four minutes in pest control are the four minutes spent in reading the directions on the product's label. The advertisement points out that chemical companies spend thousands of dollars in developing and testing farm chemicals. Sometimes this takes years and often involves hundreds of field tests in all parts of the country. From these experiments the company carefully prepares directions for the use of the product. These directions are put down in brief form on the label. Frequently they can be read and understood in less than four minutes.

Since it is so important in securing effective results from the chemicals' use, and in protecting the health and the lives of members of the agricultural family and of the families who will use the product, it certainly is not asking too much that careful attention be given to the directions on the label. Every farmer will save himself hours and dollars by carefully reviewing the directions every time chemicals are used.

If Chaucer Were Alive This April

From The Los Angeles Times

Chaucer had some ideas about April and its sweet showers, but he wrote at a time when the boys on the vacant lots had no major sport except shooting arrows from bows longer than they were. It was monotonous and it could be dangerous.

Baseball, the true justification of April, was 500 years in the future when Chaucer wrote. If he were here now, and being as he was a poet of the people and their simple, kindly folkways, he would rejoice because April brings forth on the sports pages a gorgeous flowering of box scores and team standings, while in the playing meadows can be heard the cheerful sounds of bats and balls and chewing gum and the exhilarating honk of returning umpires.

Yes, April, when life begins again after the long hibernation since the World Series. Even in Philadelphia the people stir in their slumber. For a little while wives are kinder to their husbands and try to understand.

Oh, to sit behind first base, now that April's there!

Browning was born too soon and too far away.

Times of India Feels President Blundered in Handling of Cuba

From The Times of India, New Delhi, And Forwarded by Gene Calvin Of Appleton.

The dialogue between Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev about Cuba has an ominous tone. The Soviet Prime Minister says that his country will give Cuba all necessary assistance in beating back the invaders; the American President replies that any military intervention will be met by force by the United States. Mr. Kennedy's firm answer will perhaps have the calculated effect of restraining Moscow from rushing into the Cuban conflict on the side of the Castro Government. There is therefore little danger that Cuba will become a battleground for a "limited war" between the United States and the Soviet Union. The real danger is that the attempt to overthrow the Castro regime through military action by rebels supported by the United States will create an atmosphere of hostility and distrust thereby jeopardizing the settlement of a large number of other international problems. And if the cold war becomes intensified a large part of the blame will have to be laid at the door of the White House.

President Kennedy has indeed blundered gravely in Cuba. He had an opportunity to rid himself of the Cuban legacy which he inherited from Mr. Eisenhower. But he has wantonly thrown the opportunity away. He could have abandoned the Republican Administration's attitude of sustained hostility towards the Castro revolution and made a sincere effort to remove Havana's distrust of Washington's intentions in Cuba. Instead he has acted in a manner that can only expose the United States to the charge of interfering grossly in the internal affairs of a small, neighboring country. The pretence that the United States is in no way responsible for the invasion of Cuba can only be called grotesque. The rebel army has quite clearly been trained and equipped by the United States. But for the

Offers Observation on Inspection of Bicycles

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I hope my comments will be regarded as those of a cooperative, interested parent.

I am struck by the difficulties in the present program of bicycle licensing. While it is certainly true that a real bicycle inspection would have real value, it seems to me that mere registration and fee payment each year is just a waste of time for all concerned. And all parents are concerned about the larger threat to the safety of children who do not otherwise take their bicycles into congested city areas.

I do not know the cost in police man-hours required by the present system, but I do know that as a taxpayer, I should be glad to foot a slightly larger bill that included a program something like this:

1. Bicycle Safety Month. . . with talks at assemblies and discussions in the classrooms on the elementary school year.
2. Each school would have Bicycle Registration day or days, during which day a policeman would register the bikes at the schools. This would eliminate the dangers of a trip to town. The policeman would be given time to make a real inspection of brakes and steering apparatus.

Barring a set-up of this kind, the alternative of having parents mail in money for license renewals, would seem a sensible and satisfactory procedure.

Today I saw a policeman giving a ticket to a junior high school bike rider, and I presume it was for failure to produce a current license. If we can afford to have policemen going to the schools for this purpose, then perhaps we can afford to have them go to the schools for bike registrations.

Gov. Nelson and the State Tax Proposals

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The publicity releases during the last fortnight from the Democratic caucuses in both houses of the legislature announcing that the minority party intends to stand solidly against a sales tax probably can be read beyond their literal contents.

It is not especially relevant that the Democrats have announced that they intend to honor the commitment, explicit and implicit, of their party platforms of the last 20 years.

What else were they trying to say?

It is a reasonable guess, at the least, that between the lines could be read a declaration that might have gone something like this:

"The Republicans have a majority in both houses of this legislature. It is their responsibility to provide a financial program. We can afford to stand together in dissent. If they want a sales tax, it is up to them to enact it."

WHAT NOW?

The Republicans, of course, have the legislative majority and it is that majority that in the end will be required to make the decision — the most difficult decision a legislature has faced since the days of the great depression.

But all this is not especially newsworthy. What would be news of the first order would be a press release from the Democratic legislative caucus announcing that the legislators and the governor had decided that they would stand implacably against a sales tax.

For the Democratic legislators won't be involved in the decision, a fact which gives them the luxurious opportunity of announcing their votes before roll call. Gov. Nelson will be involved. He can sign or veto what the Republican legislature sends him in the way of a tax bill late in May or early in June when the total of state spending for the next two years has been established and the precise extent of the big state deficit is on the record.

And it is worth a passing note, at the least, that the governor is keeping his own counsel. He has said that he favors higher income tax rates on individuals — all individuals, from the lowest to the highest brackets of earnings. He has said that he doesn't like the sales tax, but he has predicted, in effect, that it will some day be enacted here. What is most important is that he has not said that he will veto a sales tax if it is sent to him, and that he is evidently resolved to avoid such a flat commitment.

The governor confronts capitol reporters weekly at a formal press conference. One of the reporters, representing a publisher who fancies himself a political mover and shaker as well as a purveyor of news, regularly puts the question to Nelson, and the governor as regularly declines to reply.

THERE IS TIME

All this might be the caution of the normally prudent man who knows it is dangerous to establish a position, before it is required, from which there can be no retreat. But it might also be regarded as a kind of oblique hint that there is room for compromise of this seemingly irreconcilable dispute between higher income taxes and the adoption of the sales tax which now is so widely used elsewhere.

How could there be a compromise? It is yet too early to get reliable hints. But it is conceivable that if the Republicans were to make a concession, such as a withholding tax for the present income tax scales, that Nelson would be tempted to accept a moderate sales tax as an alternative to the kind of stalemate that plagued him in his legislative relations in his first term.

Normally a governor tends to win disputes with the legislature. Yet the record of the 1960 elections is suggestive. The Republicans made handsome legislative gains which they interpreted as popular vindication of their adamant resistance to Nelson's fiscal program in the 1959 legislature. In the middle of a promising career, a governor may be inclined to study such matters judiciously.

Court Calendar Crowded

Backlog Will Be Reduced

BY REINY WESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

After Jan. 1, 1962, when Outagamie County's new third branch of the county court comes into existence, a backlog of cases in the present municipal court should be substantially reduced.

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg says he has to set cases seven and eight months in advance because of the load on his court. When the new court begins operating he expects he will be able to keep his calendar more current.

The present county court and circuit court are not troubled with such long backlogs, the presiding judges say.

Bigger Work Load

County Judge Stanley A. Staidl says that although his case load has increased about 40 per cent. between 1952 and 1960 he is able to keep his calendar quite current, scheduling some cases a couple of months ahead.

Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell says his case load has increased during recent years, but he is able to keep his calendar current. He says he can't be sure just what effect the Wisconsin court reorganization act will have on his case load.

The act, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1962, gives county and circuit courts concurrent jurisdiction, with only two exceptions.

Third of Series

Treason and civil suits where damages sought exceed $25,000 must be tried in circuit court.

Outagamie County's municipal court was created by special legislation in 1907. Technically it has concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit court in criminal cases. In reality it has exclusive jurisdiction, because of its equal power with the circuit court. None of the cases are bound over to the higher court. Only criminal cases to reach the circuit court go there on appeal from the lower court.

In civil cases, municipal court can handle suits for damages up to $200,000. When the court was first created it could go up to $2,500, but this has been increased by revisions of the original act. As of Jan. 1, 1962 that act will be repealed.

As in the past, criminal cases will have to be given a preliminary hearing in county court, then may be bound over to the circuit court. But since county courts will have concurrent jurisdiction in criminal matters, except for treason, Judge Parnell says he does not think very many cases will be bound over to his court.

Municipal court now handles all traffic and ordinance violations, all criminal cases and some civil suits.

New Court's Duties

Just which of these cases will go to the new court has not been decided. The reorganization act says that the judges of the various branches of the county court will decide among themselves what each branch will do, in addition to any specific duties set down in the act. For example

Branch No. 3 will be a traffic search at the office. Most of his court. This would mean that legal journals are read at home, Branch No. 2, the present municipal court, probably would handle criminal and civil matters.

All of the judges point out that they have time-consuming tasks in addition to presiding in court. Judge Schmieg says he spends about one-fourth of his time in the office studying briefs, doing research and reading legal journals to keep abreast of new laws and procedures. He says he also studies at home in the evening and before coming to work in the morning.

Judge Staidl says he studies the cases before him at the office, he had 653 cases, including 459 probate matters and 29 adoptions. Judge Parnell said he spends a year his court disposed of 45,933 cases, including non-moving traffic violations, compared to a total of 10,000 cases in 1950. Many of the moving and non-moving traffic violations, especially forfeitures, are handled routinely and the defendants never appear in court.

He says that from July 1, 1959 to July 1, 1960 he handled 430 criminal and civil matters. In court terminology, a "matter" does not mean an appearance by a defendant; it may be any subject brought to the attention of the court — a judgment, garnishment, or similar legal document.

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire has called for an investigation into the Defense Department's practice of making purchases through competitive bids.

The Wisconsin senator said he wanted to know why the Defense Department continues to evade when competitive bidding is the clear intent of Congress that

Cases Handled

Judge Parnell said that during his two terms of court in Outagamie County each year he handles about 200 cases. He has two terms in Langlade and Shawano Counties each year, also. Most of Judge Parnell's cases are jury trials which may take days of testimony.

Last year Judge Staidl handled 934 cases, including 603 probate matters and 56 adoptions. In 1950 cases before him at the office, he had 653 cases, including 459 probate matters and 29 adoptions.

Judge Schmieg says that last year his court disposed of 45,933 cases, including non-moving traffic violations, compared to a total of 10,000 cases in 1950. Many of the moving and non-moving

Proxmire Asks Investigation of Purchases by Bid

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire has called for an investigation into the Defense Department's practice of making purchases through competitive bids.

The Wisconsin senator said he wanted to know why the Defense Department continues to evade when competitive bidding is the clear intent of Congress that most purchases should be made by advertised competitive bids. He said "the shocking fact is that less than $1 out of $7 of defense procurement is by advertised bid."

Proxmire said the cost to the taxpayer of failing to get competitive bids is very high. "Small business has a party membership brings enjoyment, young people can add enthusiasm and they can bring added zest to political issues."

Key Men Under Cloak of Anonymity

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—So many key men in the Kennedy administration got under the cloak of U.S. intelligence misadventure that the amount of arms Castro had and the degree of support Cubans would give the invasion. But it makes you punchy when an authoritative source, who won't let his name be used, is contradicted by a high official who can't be named.

It started late last week when reporters began asking why the Cuban invasion failed so miserably.

Source Quoted

They talked to one of the most important men around Kennedy. But he didn't want to be identified. So an "authoritative source" was quoted as saying:

1. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon encouraged President Kennedy to go ahead with plans for the invasion.

2. United States intelligence was faulty in its reports on how much armament Fidel Castro had and the likelihood of a hoped-for Cuban uprising.

Pretty soon Andrew Hatcher Kennedy's assistant press secretary, issued a statement which denied part, but not all of what the "authoritative source" had said.

Fell on Its Face

Hatcher denied Kennedy and Eisenhower had discussed the invasion before the inauguration. But he didn't deny U.S. intelligence fell on its face.

On Monday a top-ranking official, who said he couldn't be identified by name, told newspaper editors: U.S. intelligence was away off the beam on Cuba. He said:

1. The Cuban underground and U.S. intelligence miscalculated the amount of arms Castro had and the degree of support Cubans would give the invasion.

2. U.S. intelligence was caught short when the French generals revolted in Algeria.

Overseas Spying

This U.S. intelligence, of course, meant the Central Intelligence Agency, which is America's organization for overseas spying. Allen W. Dulles heads the agency.

On Tuesday, talking to the same group of editors, another high official in the Kennedy administration, refusing to let his name be used, said:

1. The CIA correctly and accurately reported Castro's military power and the temper of the Cuban people before the invasion began.

2. The CIA also knew about the discontent of French generals in Algeria but not about the decision to revolt because that apparently was decided on suddenly.

Initial Invasion

This same high official later told reporters it was understood that the initial Cuban invasion, if to be successful, had to be sustained a while before the Cuban people could be expected to respond with an uprising.

Since it wasn't sustained and collapsed in a hurry, this anonymous official was asked who was to blame for not sustaining it.

The official wouldn't say, although it would seem he was hitting at the Navy, whose chief of operations is Adm. A. J. Burke.

Doing the Talking

President Kennedy has appointed Dulles and Burke to assist Gen. Maxwell Taylor and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy in examining America's intelligence activities.

Looters in Ceylon to Face Death Penalty

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—The Ceylon government ordered the death penalty for looters as it sought to crush a separatist movement by the island's Tamil minority.

The new order, issued under a state of emergency proclaimed last week, also decreed imprisonment for anyone caught setting up roadblocks or damaging vehicles in the Tamil-speaking Northern and Eastern areas.

The Tamils, Hindus, who migrated to Buddhist Ceylon from India, are waging a civil disobedience campaign to support demands that Tamil as well as Sinhalese be made an official language.

ties and the problems of guerrilla warfare. The Eisenhower administration and Kennedy carried it out. Republican senators began to cry "foul" for mixing Eisenhower up in the disaster. So Udall issued an apology Monday. He said the Kennedy administration had taken full responsibility. Udall said he didn't take much imagination to conclude that for some reason Nixon didn't want to be quoted on what he said but wanted his views presented as something he "believes" or "feels" or "thinks". To make matters more confusing, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall got mixed up in the Cuban situation. He had to be chastised gently by the White House.

Cry 'Foul'

In a Sunday TV interview Udall said the plan for the Cuban invasion had been conceived during the Eisenhower administration.

Community Use of Schools Increases in Past 5 Years

Appleton public schools were used by community groups nearly 1½ times as much during the last year as during the same period five years ago, Director of Business Affairs William R. Knuth reported to the board of education Monday.

The schools were used for 2,839 meetings, plays and other events from March, 1960, to February, 1961, Knuth said. From March, 1955, to February, 1956, there were 1,897 non-school events in the school buildings.

During the five years, school building use decreased 29 to 87 per cent in the summer months and increased 38 to 151 per cent during the nine school months, Knuth reported.

Fall Legislative Session Certain

Major Question Whether It'll be Lengthy or Short

By FRANK CREPEAU
MADISON (AP)—A fall session of the 1961 Legislature is a certainty, but whether it will be a short affair to look over Gov. Gaylord Nelson's vetoes or a lengthy wrangle over a tax program has lawmakers guessing. A few Democrats flatly predict the tax program will be put off until fall.

Session In Fall
"I don't see how we can avoid a fall session on taxes," said Assemblyman Fred Risser, D-Madison.

Elephant Goes Berserk, Kills Man in Texas

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—An elephant suddenly went berserk and trampled to death an elderly man and injured its trainer as hundreds of bystanders stood by in helpless horror.

The 40-year-old elephant, named Henrietta, had spent the morning pulling children in a wagon around a shopping center parking lot. At the time of the accident she was tethered near a truck.

"I don't know what happened, she must have gotten scared," said Earl Tillman, 20, of La Grange, Tex., the trainer.

Tillman said he saw James John Orr, 67, walking around the elephant and the animal suddenly swung at Orr.

Orr started to run. Before he got five feet the elephant knocked him down.

"I started to run over to him and before I got there she had her foot on him," He said, "I don't remember anything after that."

Orr died a few minutes after being trampled.

Witnesses said the elephant grabbed the trainer by the arm and tossed him over her back. Tillman suffered a broken arm and bruises.

After the accident the elephant was locked in the truck and placed under guard.

The elephant formerly was owned by the James Chusty Circus and is now owned by Marlin Plunkett of La Grange.

Lack of Doctors is Serious Problem for African Nations

Only 50 Students Now Attending University's New Medical School

By JOHN A. KENNEDY
LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP) — When the Belgians pulled out of the Congo last July, there was not a single medical doctor in this vast country.

Only 50 students are now in the new medical college at Louvain-la-Neuve University here as the only pipeline to supply Congolese health supervision in the future.

This medical-health picture perhaps dramatically points up the problems of the Congo — and for that matter similar difficulties already present or certain to be encountered in the emerging African nations today.

Experts say the people just can't all go back to the sorcerers and witch doctors of the past — though these mysticists still prevail in a large part of the uncivilized areas of the bush and jungle.

On Independence Day, there were 761 Belgian doctors. After the uprisings, only 150 remained and those were mostly in the big cities — to care for 13,000,000 Congolese and 4,000,000 more in Belgian-administered Ruanda and Arundi.

The departing medicos took teams were assigned to each of the six provinces consisting of a doctor, one sanitary engineer, and a public health expert.

Medical Stores

The Belgians fortunately had medical stores which they believed adequate for 1½ years in the event the Congo was cut off by another world war. The first six months since July drew heavily on this stock but Dr. Bellerive says they are not too desperate on this score at present.

"The big problem today," the WHO chief said, "is what can we do in the future because the Red Cross doctors are planning to leave in June?"

The U.N. already has sent 61 Congo as super medical assistants. The first reports from five French universities are quite good. It is with the understanding that in the hope of Dr. Bellerive to send additional to the three years in 20 more medical assistants to these institutions, the students at the same time will make up their deficiencies in the basic sciences. By comparative training, they could rank between an intern and a graduate nurse.

Tough Exams

If they do not pass the French medical exams—which are tough

Beyond the Congo's political troubles are enormous problems in such fundamental matters as health and education. John A. Kennedy, publisher and editor in chief of the Sioux Falls Argus-Leader, and Mrs. Kennedy just concluded a stay in the country which they visited before, in 1959. This is the first of three articles about conditions they found on those trips.

—they will be returned to the Congo as super medical assistants. The first reports from five French universities are quite good. It is with the understanding that in the hope of Dr. Bellerive to send additional to the three years in 20 more medical assistants to these institutions, the students at Health Organization is picking up the tab. They also have worked out a full program for public health doctors with about 1,000 students.

Some Swiss medical schools also are training Africans but the small supply of medical assistants here are so badly needed to help to at least partially preserve the Congo's health that it will be difficult to let them leave the country.

In three years this group of Congolese will form the backbone of their country's health service and will be augmented by graduates from the relatively newly formed medical school at Leopoldville—Louvain University.

Difficult Placing

Dr. Bellerive reported considerable difficulty in the placing of doctors after they arrive.

Kivu, from where most of the Belgians were chased when the tribes rose against their former colonial masters, first said "no" to the proffered medical teams.

In April they cabled the U.N. including surgeons and specialists. There has been some difficulty in obtaining full cooperation with native officials by U.N. heads. A few doctors were roughed up a

Shannon Co. To Consolidate In One Building

The S. C. Shannon Co., 1726 N. Ballard Road, is building a 30,000-square-foot addition to its warehouse so that it can consolidate all of its operations in one place, and to take care of increased business volume.

Ralph Moehring, vice president and general manager, said the firm's frozen food service and refrigerated storage area for fresh foods will be moved from rented quarters on N. Superior Street to the Ballard Road plant.

A permit for work estimated to cost $30,000 has been issued by Building Inspector Walter Bogan.

Food freezers, all at 10 degrees or more below zero, will occupy 6,000 square feet. Refrigerators for fresh foods, kept at 35 degrees above zero, will occupy another 2,500 square feet.

Remainder of the addition will be used for dry foods warehouse, Moehring said.

The present building, including office and shipping areas, contains 61,000 square feet. It was built in 1957.

The new portion will be built of concrete block, with red brick on the front to match the existing building. It is hoped the addition will be ready for use by the middle of July.

With the aid of hurriedly recruited Red Cross teams, the U. N. chief has been able only to partially reorganize the nation's health setup.

Dr. Bellerive's most optimistic guess is that it will take at least 15 years before the Congolese can get along without foreign doctors — if then.

Through the Red Cross, Dr. Bellerive tried to get 130 doctors immediately. Of this number, 72 have arrived. In addition to physicians, public health advisory

Notes of Late Rudolph Hoess Heard in Trial

Says Eichmann
Was Obsessed
With His Task

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was obsessed with his task of destroying Jews and drove himself furiously from country to country in pursuit of it, evidence introduced today in his trial alleged.

"Eichmann was always active. He couldn't rest. He traveled constantly. He said the 'final solution' must be decisive because nobody knows how the war will end."

These were the words of a former colleague of Eichmann, a man now dead.

They were written by Rudolf Hoess, wartime commander of the great extermination camp at Auschwitz. He was executed in Poland in 1947.

Argue Over Witness
The prosecution succeeded today in putting Hoess' notes into the record. It also introduced as evidence further details about Eichmann from S.S. Maj. Dieter Wisliceny, one of his former aides. Wisliceny also was executed after World War II.

In other developments today—Arguments broke out over the question of bringing a living witness to the trial—Dr. William Hoettl, former S.S. major, now living in Austria. He is liable to prosecution under an Israeli law that makes membership in the S.S., and other such Nazi organizations, a criminal offense. The question arose as to whether he could be granted safe conduct in Israel.

Was Israel Safe?
Testimony in an affidavit indicated that the "final solution of the Jewish problem"—total extermination—might have been attempted in Palestine as well as Europe, if Germany had won the war. The affidavit, from Wisliceny, described a meeting between Eichmann and the grand mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini.

The name of another potential living witness, former S.S. Lt. Col. Walter Huppenkothen, also came into the hearing. The prosecution offered an affidavit from him and Dr. Robert Servatius, chief defense attorney, objected on the ground that Huppenkothen is alive. While the argument continued, Eichmann passed a note to Servatius and the attorney said, "The accused just tells me that Huppenkothen is in West Germany."

Wonderful Set of 12 Books National Prize in Contest

BY CAPPY DICK

Today boys and girls have a chance to win a set of 12 famous books as the national grand prize in a new puzzle contest.

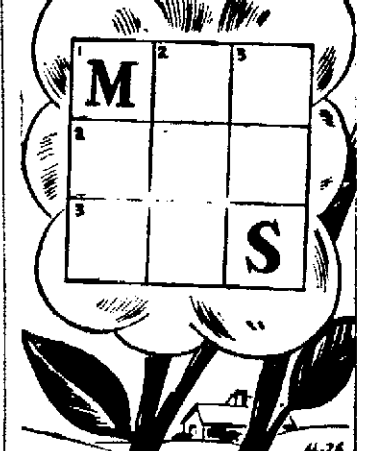

These Encyclopaedia Britannica "Great Books for Children," beautifully bound and illustrated, include: "Tom Sawyer," "Treasure Island," "Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Robinson Crusoe," "Heidi," "Alice in Wonderland," "Arabian Nights," "Black Beauty," "Robin Hood," "Tales from Shakespeare," "King Arthur" and, in the 12th book, "Aesop's Fables" and "Pinocchio." Five 12-volume sets will be graph of Eichmann. The prosecution had attempted to put it in evidence two days ago. Beside the signature are the words, "S.S. Lt. Col. Adolf Eichmann, retired." Attorney General Gideon Hausner told the court investigation showed the photograph was a copy of one that had appeared in a German pictorial weekly.

Slowly over repeated objections by the defense—and some sharp questioning by the three Israeli judges—Hausner went on filling in the picture of Eichmann through written testimony of his former associates, Wisliceny and Hoess.

awarded as national grand prizes in today's contest. To qualify for one of these grand prizes you must first win a local prize.

The five neatest, correct, local entries will win a package of 36 baseball hobby trading cards showing color pictures of famous ball players. Then, the winning entries in all the cities where this column is published will be reviewed by the contest judges to find the five neatest and most attractive of all. These five will win the "Great Books for Children."

The puzzle, in the picture above, is a word-square. Two of the nine letters required to solve it are in the picture. You must supply seven additional letters to complete the square and form three words reading the same from top to bottom as from left to right. Here are the clues: No. 1 Rows: The name of a month. No. 2 Rows: An old-fashioned word meaning "yes." No. 3 Rows: Means the same as the word in No. 2 Rows.

Print the missing letters in the word square. Clip it out, paste it on paper or a postal card, print your name, age and address beneath it, then, decorate it in any neat, attractive way. Mail it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Contest at the Post-Crescent before Friday midnight. (Copyright, 1961) took control of the city and threw up roadblocks.

Algiers Rebels Beaten; Challe Surrenders Self

Some Shooting
Sporadic shooting broke out but after daylight life in Algiers steadily returned to normal. Stores and shops opened and buses were on schedule.

In Paris, Information Minister Louis Terrenoire said a plane from Algeria had landed at British Gibraltar with certain "accomplices" of Challe but he did not know their names.

Already stripped of his rank and dismissed from the service on order of De Gaulle, Challe was to be confined in Sante Prison in Paris as a common criminal and not in a military prison.

While civilian and military authorities made prisoners by the insurgents in their predawn coup last Saturday resumed control of their offices in Algiers, gendarmes and troops set up roadblocks on main highways. Search planes roared into the Algerian skies at dawn.

Settlers in Despair
The fleeing generals left behind them despairing and bewildered French settlers of the North African metropolis who had supported their effort to overthrow De Gaulle and keep Algeria forever French.

In addition to trials of the generals and four colonels charged with key roles in the revolt, military courts presumably will also judge the soldiers who joined in the revolt, particularly the paratroopers who were the rebellious officers' strongest arm.

The rebellion, second such defiance of De Gaulle in Algeria in 15 months, collapsed with spectacular suddenness late Tuesday night. One moment the military junta was urging the anti-Gaullist French of Algiers to fight to the death. Soon after they were driving off into the darkness in trucks loaded with paratroopers.

The climactic scene of the short-lived rising occurred in the vast forum in the heart of the city.

50,000 in Crowd
A crowd of 50,000 French settlers gathered there as rumors spread through the city that forces loyal to De Gaulle were preparing to retake Algiers.

Inside government headquarters Challe, Salan, Zeller and Jouhaud listened with sullen despair as the bad news poured in. Mobile gendarmes, loyal to De Gaulle and supported by tanks, were approaching the city. Oran and Constantine, once in insurgent hands, had surrendered to government forces earlier in the day.

The game was up and the generals, professional soldiers, knew it.

Earlier in the day Challe had sent a letter of surrender to De Gaulle placing himself "at the disposal of the government."

The gendarmes mopped up the few pockets of resistance in Algiers, herded the population indoors and took away the arms of civilians they met on the streets.

In Paris, the lights went out at 2 a.m. in the Elysee Palace. The 70-year-old president of France had gone to bed, once more the victor in a situation that threatened France with civil war.

Orders Action
De Gaulle, who assumed extraordinary powers to crush the uprising, issued orders to the loyal troops in Algeria to shoot if necessary to restore government control.

But little fighting was necessary. The navy and air force already had rejected the rebellion. Throughout the day army units in Algiers rallied to De Gaulle. A stream of air force planes, including one flight of 18 transports, fields and flew to France. An insurgent paratroop column that marched on the big naval base of Mers-el-Kebir, adjoining Oran, was warned off by gunfire from naval vessels in the harbor.

With the surrender of Constantine and Oran to government forces, it appeared that the insurgents were preparing for a last ditch stand in Algiers. But the stand turned into a rout. There was no immediate word as to the total number of casualties in the few skirmishes. Four gendarmes were wounded in one brief battle with paratroopers in front of the Hotel Aletti.

A navy detachment took over Radio Algiers, which in rebel hands once boasted that all Algeria was in insurgent hands. The rebels' rebellion was over and ordered the street crowds to disperse.

Dentists Follow Their Own Advice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "How often do you brush your teeth?" a newsman asked 42 southern California dentists at their annual meeting.

The answers: 21 claimed three times daily, 6 said four times a day, 2 said five times, 1 said six, 5 said two and 7 said once.

The dentist who brushes six times a day boasted that he hadn't had a cavity since 1947.

Revolt's End Pleases U. S.

Rusk Says Free
World Needs Strong
And Unified France

WASHINGTON (AP) — The collapse of the Algerian revolt obviously cheered official Washington.

Neither the White House nor the State Department issued any formal comment Tuesday night. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk said, "It is always a great help to the free world to see France strong and unified."

Rusk spoke to newsmen before taking off for the Central Treaty Organization meeting in Ankara, Turkey. The organization is an alliance of Britain, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan.

The United States supported French President Charles de Gaulle all the way.

U. S. Offered Help
President Kennedy had offered him any assistance he might want in squashing the revolt.

The State Department also had warned the insurgent French generals not to attempt to move into Tunisia or Morocco to attack Algerian Moslem leaders based there.

Officials here privately expressed their hopes that De Gaulle now can move along in his quest for a settlement of the Algerian crisis.

Some authorities said his success in smashing the uprising would strengthen his hand in arranging the settlement.

U.S. officials believe such a settlement would allow France to play a more effective role in building the defenses of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, thus insuring France's position as one of the cornerstones of NATO.

County Reform on Way With New Bill

Only Scattered Opposition to Details Appeared in Assembly

JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Overwhelming approval by the Wisconsin state assembly Tuesday of the county executive bill suggests strongly that the first significant reform of the organization of county government in many decades is near achievement.

With only scattered opposition, the bill was passed by a vote of 77 to 19 and 71 to 26, creating the position of county executive officer, and to provide for appointment or election of the chief county manager-official.

The bill was sponsored by Assemblymen Jerome Quinn of Green Bay and Kenneth Priebe of Appleton, who worked slowly and carefully to anticipate objections and to incorporate amendments into their draft before they brought it to the floor for a vote.

Voice Vote
Final approval in the assembly was by a voice vote, after members had shown their sentiments by knocking down amendments by the margins of 77 to 19 and 71 to 26.

The heavy support almost surely forecasts some concurrence of the measure relatively soon. Gov.

Gaylord Nelson is a backer of the measure was the only county executive idea and will sign the measure into law when it reaches him.

Party lines were scrambled on the proposal, but most of the votes against the Quinn - Priebe draft came from Democrats who said they wanted the bill to be made stronger.

The assembly vote showed a considerable change in legislative attitude toward the long - static form and character of county government.

Education at Work
As Assemblyman Haase of Marinette, Republican floorleader, explained during the brief debate "this shows the process of education at work. Five or 10 years ago, this bill wouldn't have had a chance."

Other members pointed out that

Mace, the men's organization, is celebrating its 50th anniversary on the Lawrence campus this year, and will hold a dinner Thursday evening at Brokaw Hall. The women's organization will have a luncheon at Colman Hall earlier in the day.

Some legislators privately conceded that the bill as approved is not a strong one, but they said they are sure the optional power

Your Problems

Father's Demand for Mealtime Peace Shows His Need for Help

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a strict man who must be Lord and Master of all he surveys. Although he's only in his late twenties he acts a great deal like my grandfather did when he was 70.

Ann Landers

The problem that is causing me great anxiety involves our children who are 4 and 6 years of age.

My husband insists that he and I eat all our meals in the dining room while the children eat in the kitchen alone. He claims the man of the house is entitled to enjoy his meals without having to listen to and look at jabbering and slobbering children. According to him he has a weak stomach and the children give him indigestion. What can I do?—Mrs. Don't Know.

Dear Mrs.: The trouble is not in his stomach, it's a few feet higher—in his head. A father who cannot tolerate the sight and sound of his children during mealtime is ill.

Youngsters raised in such an atmosphere grow up to hate and fear their father. They see friends enjoying meals with their parents and it gives them the feeling that something must be wrong with them.

If your husband refuses to eat with his children join them in the kitchen and give him so much peace and quiet that he'll take himself to a psychiatrist and get the help he so desperately needs.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A group of university students had a heated discussion last night and an interesting question came up. We'd like your opinion.

The girl is engaged to an upper-middle-class law student. She's just plain middle-class—a notch below him in the social structure. He wants to get married in the spring. She is stalling with this pitch: "Not until you can take me on a first-class honeymoon to Nassau." He says he can't afford it. She says "Your father can—don't be so proud. You know he'd be happy to underwrite the trip."

What do you say?—Coffee House Group

Dear Group: The middle-class girl has fourth-class values. If the fellow is lucky she'll stall him off until he finds a first-class girl who'll settle for no honeymoon if that's what he can afford.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman 51 years of age, in excellent health and I have never married. I'm no man-hater, in fact I enjoy the company of men more than women. I passed up marriage because as the oldest of five children I believed it was my responsibility to look after our semi-invalid mother.

Mother passed away two years ago. I've been going with a professional man who wants to marry me. He is 59, a widower and a fine person, well respected and active in community affairs.

My brother and sisters are appalled at the thought of a woman my age being "a bride." My oldest brother says the Bible states clearly that the sole purpose of marriage is to have a family, and that any other reason is sinful.

Is he right? What do you advise?—Kathleen

Dear Kathleen: What Bible is he reading? I've never heard of such biblical advice. It may be a little late for you to go forth and multiply, but marriage that offers companionship in the evening of your years makes a great deal of sense.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tri-City Boating Club members entertained at an informal dance Saturday evening at Appleton Columbus Club to celebrate the opening of navigation. Talking over coming events are Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. William Daniel, Neenah residents. Below, Richard Patterson, Appleton, takes his wife's cot upon entering the club to begin the evening's festivities. Saturday's event was the first of the new spring season.

Crib Footboard Remains Useful

A crib with a plastic blackboard panel footboard, complete with chalk ledge, provides wonderful entertainment for a tot. When the crib is outgrown, the blackboard can be hung on a wall.

To erase, wipe the board with a sponge wrung out of soap or detergent suds and rinses. At the same time, suds the white enamel crib frame to ensure a spotless environment.

Acceptability Set By Cleanliness

Now it's official that what you wear is not so important as being clean.

At the North Carolina State Inaugural Ball, the only dress rules were that non-dancing male spectators had to wear suits and ties and look as if they'd washed recently.

Sheinwold Swift Play Produces Good Effect

There's a certain kind of hand that nobody misplays on a restaurant tablecloth or on a piece of paper at the bridge table, however, there is a different story to tell.

good to play dummy's low card, since East would have finessed the nine — or so he said.

As the play went East covered with the queen of spades, and South shrewdly refused the trick. South could see that he was going to make only one spade trick whatever befell, and he wanted to take that trick as late as possible.

It was, of course, a sound idea. If South wins the first spade trick and tries the club finesse he is beaten by a spade lead through the ten. East gets the king of clubs, and West gets four spade tricks.

Returns Spade

East held the first trick, as we have seen, with the queen of spades and properly returned the nine of spades. South swiftly put in the king of spades, and West found himself playing the ace of spades before he knew which end was up.

Obviously, this was a foolish play. If West had stopped to think he would have known that South had the 10 of spades. To begin with, South would win the first trick with the king of spades if that were his only chance to win a spade trick. Then again, if East held the 10 as well as the nine of spades, he would have returned the 10 rather than the nine.

All very obvious, but the fact remains that South played his king very swiftly. This somehow panicked West into taking the ace as a sort of reflex, much as one automatically yanks back if somebody tries to snatch something away.

The defense ended at the second trick. South could afford to take the club finesse, for there was no longer a threat.

West would defeat the contract if he refused the second trick. East would later win a club trick and return his last spade.

Daily Question

Dealer, at your left, bids one spade. Partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold S A 8 7 6 2, H 5 4, D 10 9 8, C 6 5 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. You need very strong spades to consider passing for penalties. Respond in your cheapest 3-card suit when you have no longer suit.

Children Learn, Develop Through Guidance Given at Appleton's Cooperative Nursery

BY KATHY REARDON
Post-Crescent Society Editor

"When children play, they run, push, pull, jump, climb and throw; and they imitate. They need equipment such as ladders, saw horses, planks, woodworking tools, wheel toys, balls and swings that can 'take it,' and they need objects to use for imitating adults and dramatizing situations" . . . a reason for a nursery, according to the booklet published for day care centers by Department of Public Welfare.

And that is what they get at Appleton's Cooperative Nursery, now operating at First Methodist Church. However, soon the children, 20 in the junior group and 20 in the senior session, will be meeting at All Saints' Episcopal Church in the educational wing. Next September will mark the third year the nursery has been in operation.

Sessions began January, 1959, at First Methodist Church under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Grienier, a kindergarten teacher in Appleton public schools for many years. She is helped each morning by at least two mothers. The mothers work about every three weeks — supervising, putting on children's wraps and just keeping general order.

Now there are 20 youngsters between the ages of 3½ and 5. In September 20 juniors will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays and 20 older children will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Mrs. Thomas Loeschler is membership chairman and Mrs. E. R. Bollenbeck is president of the nursery.

A fixed fee is charged for each child which goes to paying the teacher, class room rent and equipment. The school is licensed by the state department of child welfare and is mapped out according to the public school year.

Each child must have a physician's statement that he is well and has had the proper inoculations. The nursery is non-profit and non-sectarian. "Nursery schools exist to help children learn and develop through providing them with guidance, understanding and affection," according to the welfare department.

Toys Galore

They certainly get this at Appleton's school. There are toys galore in the small room — rocking horses, balls, beads, even a playhouse constructed by one of the fathers for the children's use. Song periods and rest periods are also a part of the morning which begins at 8:45 and concludes at 11:15.

Each child has his own blanket or rug where he curls up on during the 'quiet' period.

At the conclusion of the morning, the children are 'let loose' in the basement of the church where they can run, scream, jump and do just about everything they can't do upstairs in the nursery room.

Visit Firemen

Visits to landmarks and interesting places are also taken by the young class. This year the group has toured the police and fire stations, public library for a puppet show, a radio station, and Lawrence College Music - Drama Center where they tried on and modeled the department's costumes.

They also receive visitors. A policeman talked to them one day, also a dental hygienist and a number of musicians who taught and demonstrated their various instruments.

Two dress-up days are held: one at Halloween time when the children are given a chance to be really imaginative, and then later in the year when a cowboy day is designated. The youngsters then can bring their guns to school. However, they must "check" them at the door.

The nursery began as an outgrowth of the decision reached by school officials to drop the 4-year-old kindergarten. The school has always been full. . . . 10 boys and 10 girls are taken each year. They "graduate" when they reach kindergarten age.

The mothers must bring the children to school and pick them up again. "Quite often there are neighborhood pools where one mother takes them and another picks them up or where they rotate from week to week," Mrs. Bollenbeck mentioned. Often there are younger children at home who have to be dressed and taken along when the mother picks up the nursery school student. This is quite a task for the harried mother.

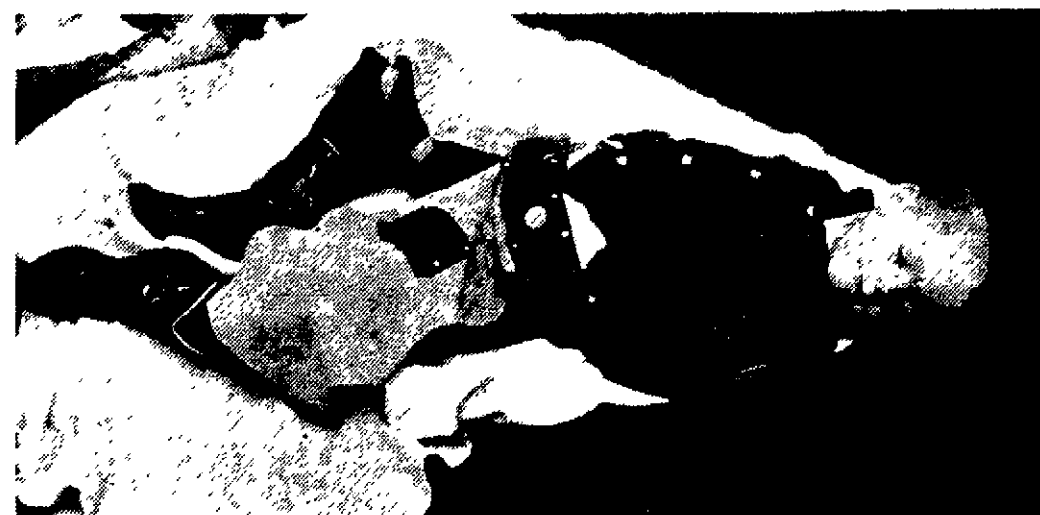

Nursery Schools are "more than places where parents 'park their children'. To be effective and worthwhile, they must be places where young children learn through playing with each other and by themselves in an atmosphere which provides opportunities for many kinds of learning experiences." This is the "why" for a nursery, taken from a booklet published by public welfare department for day care centers. Appleton's nursery is non-profit and non-sectarian and is licensed by the state department of child welfare. The school year is mapped out according to the public school year. Little Jeff Stracka, above, strums his guitar and sings a Western tune to the accompaniment of teacher Mrs. Stanley Grienier.

One Day the young students visited Lawrence College Music - Drama Center, toured the new building and tried on the drama department's costumes. David Hoffman became quite intrigued with the high and sinister black top hat he found in one of the trunks. The youngsters have also visited the fire and police stations, a radio station and Appleton Public Library.

Youngsters Come in all sizes at Appleton Cooperative Nursery, operating at First Methodist Church. The children, 3½ to 5 years old, also have different likes and preferences. However, there is something for everyone at the nursery school — a story hour, song and rest period, toys and even a time for rough-neck play. The class is limited to 20 youngsters — 10 boys and 10 girls. Next September two sessions will be held — one on Tuesdays and Thursdays for the younger group and the other on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the senior or older group.

The Day These pictures were taken was cowboy day for the students and all came attired in some wild and wooly west costume. The young man taking a nap on his rug is Tom Legard. The quiet period is an important part of the nursery session. At left, riding her horse "Paint," is Cindy Bayer. Much of the equipment at the school was made by fathers of the children. Below, Susan Davis folds her rug after the rest period. The children are assigned various duties every day. These include picking up toys, erasing the board, picking up after a snack of milk and cookies and putting out napkins for the children's lunch. Ricky Bollenbeck, at right, picks up his gun after checking it at the door of the nursery room.

Today's Etiquette

DISCHARGED HOUSEKEEPER

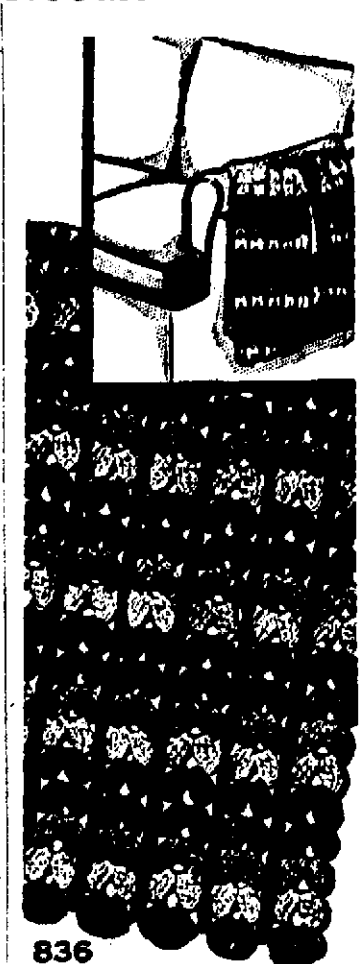

BY LOUISE DAVIS

A housekeeper we once had was discharged largely because of personality conflict. She happens to be a cousin of a friend of ours and we naturally never mentioned the circumstances. Now, the former housekeeper has applied for another position and she asked me to write a letter of recommendation. I don't want to give a poor recommendation nor would I want to recommend someone that we ourselves would not employ. Do you think we should tell our friend what actually happened?

Louise Davis Answers: No. It would solve nothing and your tale might effect your friendship. Your friend is not responsible for her cousin's behaviour. Surely you can be honest with yourself by writing a letter of recommendation, stressing your former housekeeper's good points. It is possible that she might get along beautifully with her next employer. There are no two people alike and the woman obviously needs to work.

Special Finish Washes Easily

Now almost any upholstery fabric that suits your taste, your home decor, and your budget can also be practical—because some stores will apply a stain-resistant finish without extra charge.

With this special treatment, oils, greases, and liquids can be washed off the fabrics before they form stains. Just wipe the surface with thick soap or detergent suds before the soil has a chance to set or penetrate, and rinse-wipe with a clean damp cloth. This on location "laundry" method is also highly effective for removing ordinary soil.

The Ailing House Scrub Concrete With Soda

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: The basement concrete floor has never been painted. I have cleaned the floor at various intervals with sweeping compound, etc. Now I would like to paint the floor. What should I use to clean the floor before I paint?

A: Scrub the concrete surface with a stiff brush and a strong, hot solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda, followed by thorough rinsing with clear water to remove all trace of the cleaner.

DISCOLORED CROSS BARS

Q: I am removing the paint from a picture window. On the bottom of each cross bar there is a dark discoloration caused by condensation. Is there any way to remove this dark coloring other than sanding with sandpaper? How can future staining be prevented? The wood is in good condition and I want to leave it its natural color, finishing it with a primer and sealer.

A: The discoloration can be removed, from the bare wood surface, by applying a prepared wood bleach (available paint dealers) according to manufacturer's directions. Future staining can be prevented by preventing the formation of condensation: air and ventilate the room as much as possible on clear, dry days, to permit humid house air to escape.

CLEANING KNOTTY PINE

Q: I have a basement recreation room of knotty pine. What is the best way to wash this? What sort of wax should I use on it? I want to keep its natural color and keep it light.

A: Washing and waxing can be combined, by using a cream, oil-free clean-up wax, made by a nationally known manufacturer, following label directions. This removes surface soil and leaves a protective coating of wax polish. A certain amount of darkening takes place naturally in the aging and mellowing of wood; the clean-up wax won't hasten this process or affect the color itself.

Enlist Aid If Buying Dinnerware

Knowing the types of dinnerware available is an important buying aid, according to a home furnishings specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Dinnerware made from clays fall into several different categories.

Most people are familiar with china. They know it rings with a clear, bell-like tone when held and gently tapped. It is also nonporous which means it won't absorb food or odors.

Translucent
Usually, china is translucent when held to the light. However, hotel china is opaque. This is because it is made for heavy duty. Much of it is well designed, attractive and especially useful in a home where it gets hard wear.

Porcelain dinnerware looks like glass. It is more translucent than china and very strong, though sometimes brittle.

There are three types of earthenware. The first, semi-vitrous, is also called semi-porcelain. Made from light or cream colored clays, it is strong, has a fine texture and is relatively inexpensive.

Resists Heat
Stoneware, the second type, resists heat. It looks sturdy and often can be used in the oven and on the table. Colors are usually deep and rich and combine well with texture cloths, colorful glassware and rich grained wood ware.

The third type of earthenware is pottery. It is heavy and sturdy looking but tends to chip and break easily. However, it is much less expensive than china and doesn't represent a lifetime investment.

Polar Bears' Schmelzel Halts Zephyrs

Pockets Fifth Straight Win on 3-Hitter, 6 to 2

HORTONVILLE — Hortonville High's Fran Schmelzel posted his fifth straight victory here Tuesday — a 6-2, 3-hit non-conference victory over Menasha St. Mary.

The triumph boosted Hortonville's over-all record to 5-0, including three wins over Mid-Eastern Conference foes. St. Mary is now 3-4.

Tuesday's game was shortened to six full innings because of darkness and a steady drizzle, which had started in the third.

The loser was Jim Koerner who started. He was lifted after two innings. Koerner allowed five runs on six hits and a walk, striking out two. Ron Pysora hurled the third and fourth — giving up one run on two hits and a walk, fanning two. Gene Patzner worked the final two frames, yielding no runs.

St. Louis Second Baseman Red Schoendienst is relaying to first to complete a double play against his former mates, the Milwaukee Braves, after forcing Al Spangler at second Tuesday night. The Braves won the game, 4-3.

Braves Tip Cards, 4-3, Behind Burdette; Giants Beat Dodgers to Take Over Lead

Schoendienst Makes Costly Throwing Error

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves came from behind with a three-run rally in the eighth inning Tuesday night—aided by a crucial throwing error by Red Schoendienst—to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in a National League baseball game that saw veteran Lew Burdette win his first game of the year.

Burdette yielded six hits, walked two and struck out three in going the distance to give him a 1-0 record for the young season.

The victory gave the Braves a 4-4 record for the year and they now trail the leading San Francisco Giants by 1½ games.

Mustal Homers Three hits and Schoendienst's error, gave Milwaukee the three runs that brought victory. The runs gave the Braves a 4-2 lead that was whittled to 4-3 in the ninth inning when Stan Mustal hit his second home run of the year.

Curt Simmons, the Cardinal starter and loser held the Braves to one run on six hits before he gave way to Lindy McDaniel with two men on base and none out in the eighth.

Frank Bolling and Eddie Mathews started off the inning with singles. Henry Aaron then promptly greeted McDaniel with a base hit that scored Bolling. Mathews stopping at second. Mel Roach lifted a long fly to center that was caught by Mathews and Aaron to advance a base each. Al Spangler, the low hurdles, and Jerry was intentionally passed to load the bases. Lee Maye, batting for John De Merit, hit a high hopper toward right which the former Milwaukee second baseman Schoendienst caught.

Terror, Clintonville Track Teams Win Triangular Meets

Stan Schloman Captures Pair Of Field Events

BY RALPH MUELLER Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MENASHA — Stan Schloman helped the Clintonville Truckers track squad to a triangular meet victory here Tuesday afternoon by capturing both the pole vault and high jump events. The final score was: Clintonville 73, Menasha 46, New London 45.

Schloman sprang over the high jump bar at 5 feet, 6 inches, and pulled his body over the pole vault bar at the height of 10 feet.

The only other participant in the meet to win a pair of events was New London's Dick Emerich, who won the high hurdles in 16.8 seconds and the broad jump with a fine leap of 20 feet, 3½ inches.

Dick also placed second in the low hurdles. His brother Dave, the Mid-Eastern pole vault champion and a member of the sprint corps, was unable to compete because of an ankle injury.

3 Other Firsts The Truckers captured three other events, with Bill Hoffman winning the mile. Jerry Olmance a base each. Al Spangler, the low hurdles, and Jerry was intentionally passed to load the bases. Lee Maye, batting for John De Merit, hit a high hopper toward right which the former Milwaukee second baseman Schoendienst caught.

AHS Accumulates 74 Points, Bests North, Manitowoc

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor
A fleet Appleton High School track team bolted through Tuesday's gloom and drizzle with lightning-like impact to capture its second successive triangular meet.

The Terrors, in their home debut, amassed 74 points, compared to 49½ for Sheboygan North and 40½ for Manitowoc.

AHS swifties won five of the seven pure running events. Post-Terror foursomes blitzed the opposition in the two point-rich relays for a second straight time.

Nordgren Wins In addition, Pete Glasheen prevailed in the 440-yard run (for the second consecutive time), Phil Nordgren won his first mile of the season; and Jim Hill zoomed to a 220-yard dash triumph in 23.4 seconds.

AHS' other first came in the high jump, which was taken by Gene Bloedorn at a relatively modest 5 feet, 6 inches.

Besides their six firsts, the effectively-balanced Terrors had five seconds and two ties for second and were blanked only in the discus event.

The meet's only double individual winners were North's Bill Genzler, in the two hurdles events; and Mandy's Gary Crites, in the shot put and the discus.

Genzler set a school record in the 180 lows with a run of 20.4 seconds.

Stu Miller Stops Rally As Reliever

The San Francisco Giants no longer have the three Willies with the bat, but they've moved into first place in the National League race with three M men—Miller, McCovey and Mays.

With Stu Miller's relief pitching breaking up a rally, Willie McCovey driving in two runs and Willie Mays cutting down a run at the plate with a double play peg, the Giants replaced Los Angeles in first by trimming the Dodgers 3-1 Tuesday night.

Milwaukee came from behind for a 4-3 victory over St. Louis in the only other game played in the NL. The Philadelphia at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati at Chicago games were rained out.

Quick Trouble The Dodgers, after winning three in a row, ran into quick trouble against the Giants, who held a .012 percentage point edge after winning the opener of a two-game series at Los Angeles.

Chuck Hiller opened with a single, off Dodger ace Don Drysdale (2-2) and scored on a single by McCovey. The Giants' first baseman then tagged a fourth-inning solo homer for the decisive win.

Right-hander Jack Sanford won his first and had the Dodgers on a string for six innings, allowing just two hits. In the seventh, Junior Gilliam drew one of Sanford's six walks and scored on singles by Maury Wills and Charlie Neal. That's when Miller hustled in for a perfect, three-inning relief job.

Miller first retired Tommy Davis on a foul pop and then got Wally Moon on a liner to Mays in center. Willie's rifle shot to catcher Tom Haller nailed Wills trying to score.

Moon, the Dodgers' hero with a NL record-tying total of eight home runs for April, was hitless for the first time in 14 games this season.

Santa Cruz, Calif.—Rogue Maravilla, 179½, Santa Cruz, knocked out Willie Gill, 179½, Oakland, Calif., 4.

Detroit — Clarence Riley, 160, Detroit, outpointed Lucky Little, 153½, Detroit, 10.

Fahrenkrug's 5-Hitter Blanks Bulldogs, 3-0

Bill Outduels Herres; Larry Tesch Jolts Homer for Rockets

NEW LONDON — The Neenah Rockets collected a 3-0 victory over New London High School here Tuesday afternoon behind the 5-hit pitching of right-hander Bill Fahrenkrug. The victory marked the first place Rockets a Drake Relays at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

Neenah's Larry Tesch hit a bases-clearing home run in the sixth inning. The first Rocket run was scored when Dan Murphy led off with a walk in the third and then stole second and third, with two out. Fran Goetz hit a single to right, scoring Murphy.

The only other run scored was in the fifth when Fahrenkrug hit a long double to center and scored when New London center fielder, Gary Herres, errored on the throw back to the infield.

Mike Herres hurled for the Bulldogs and, like Fahrenkrug, gave up only five hits. Both teams left nine men stranded.

New London's big scoring threat came in the sixth when Sandy Hotchkiss led off with a single and Don Harold drew a walk.

Mike Herres then hit into a field-

Foxes Battle Cedar Rapids In Season Opener Tonight

Pre-Game Ceremonies Scheduled

BY MIKE DREW Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Though the much-discussed grandstand roof is nowhere in evidence, fans will notice several major differences in Goodland Field during the season-opening home stand, starting tonight.

The old chicken-wire fence down both the first and third base lines has been replaced by much-neater cyclone fencing. Wooden ramps at both entrances to the grandstand also belong to another era. Concrete steps with metal railings have taken their place.

Tonight's brief opening game festivities begin at 7:45 p.m. with game time slated for 8 p.m. Admission is by booster button.

Buttons will be available at the gate for fans who have not purchased them in advance.

The Foxes won the league's opening night attendance honors in 1958 and 1959 but not in 1960.

Pennant Displayed Frank Briske, Foxes' director, is in charge of opening-night arrangements, which will be highlighted by the raising of the Three-I pennant.

MC Briske will welcome the crowd and introduce Club President Ray McClone, who will make opening remarks. Then Briske will present dignitaries including: Three-I League President Vern Hoscheit; Carl Lundquist of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors); Erv Bogan, of Appleton's Park and Recreation Commission; Appleton Recreation Director E. W. Grover and officials of others of the Fox Cities who are on hand.

McClone will introduce Manager Earl Weaver and Cedar Rapids Pilot Jimmy Brown. The introduction of players will follow.

The playing of the national anthem by the city band, Pete Heid, conducting, will precede the season's first pitch.

The tentative opening - night battery is Bogan pitching to Hoscheit.

Much Painting A good deal of painting has been done at Goodland Field. Areas which had been done in the old green and red color scheme have been covered with a coat of grey. This gives the park a uniform color and adds to the appearance.

The dugouts, formerly green, have been painted grey. The metal supports for the bleachers, formerly red, are being painted grey.

Omro High '9' Wins Double No-Hitter

Olkiewicz Gains 1-0 Decision Over Shiocton's Ray Theobald

LOWA A walk. Theobald fanned 11 and walked three. The winners stayed unbeaten division leaders. In the Western Division's other game Winnebago stopped Jay Creek, 7-1, on a 2-hitter by Jay Boss.

Freedom and defending champion Denmark stayed unbeaten in the Eastern Division. Freedom's Jim Brockman twirled his second straight circuit 1-hitter in blanking Hilbert, 11-0. Denmark's Paul Shusta allowed only three safeties in a 6-3 win over Wrightstown.

Only Run Omro scored the game's only run against Shiocton in the fourth inning. Bob Lee walked and went to second on a passed ball. He moved to third when Theobald erred on Olkiewicz's bunt. Doug Kintopf's sacrifice fly to center scored Lee.

Omro's Gary Redmen stabbed a line drive by Shiocton's John Johnson in the fifth and doubled a runner off first. The Chiefs hit a couple of flies to the outfield.

Omro had four base-runners.

Topeka Beats Chiefs, 7-5, In Opener

Topeka, with an assist from the weatherman, jumped ahead in the Three-I League baseball race Tuesday night.

The Reds defeated Lincoln, 7-5, in the only opener played of the three scheduled. It was too cold for Des Moines' opener against Burlington and Fox Cities' against Cedar Rapids at Appleton.

Ivan Davis rescued Harvey Alex in the ninth inning after Lincoln had scored one run and had Davis got Al Schrader to hoist a game-ending fly ball.

Topeka's Tom Harper smacked a three-run homer, walked his other four times up, scored three runs and stole two bases. Lincoln left 12 men on base.

Starrette To Oppose Jerry Glynn

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

At 8 p.m. today, Fox Cities baseball fans will begin to find out if the 1961 edition of the Foxes can take up where the '60 champions left off.

Right-handed pitcher Herm Starrette will get the starting call against visiting Cedar Rapids as the Foxes open a season at home for the first time in the club's 4-year history.

The Milwaukee farm clubbers are expected to counter with Jerry Glynn on the mound in the inaugural which was postponed from Tuesday night because of unfavorable weather.

The only familiar face in the Foxes' lineup will be "Photti" Anthony, who is back at second base for a second season. Most of the other members of the '60 Foxes, who won the Three-I League pennant by 10½ games, have moved up to either Double A or Triple A baseball.

Both of tonight's Goodland Field foes are piloted by hold-over managers. Earl Weaver will attempt to keep the Foxes on top in '61, while Jimmy Brown, who led the junior Braves to a first-division finish, will be aiming for first place this time. Last season, the Foxes won 14 games from Cedar Rapids while losing only six.

Weaver indicates that this will be his probable batting order: shortstop Dick Yench, center fielder, Joe Pulliam, first baseman Chuck Smiley, left fielder Sam Bowers, right fielder Jim Liggett, Anthony, third baseman "Nellie" Cochran, catcher Art Von Wronski and Starrette.

Last year, the 6-foot Starrette had a 9-7 record for Stockton of the Class C California club. In 1959, Starrette fashioned a 17-7 standard.

Glynn, a 6-2 right-hander was 2-9 for Austin in the Class AA Texas League.

Rated Better Brown rates the '61 Braves better than last year's club because of improved pitching. The 9-man staff includes Hortonville's Larry Huebner and Sheboygan's Jerry Hummertsch. Both could see action during the opening 3-game series at Goodland field.

Huebner started the '60 season with Cedar Rapids but was optioned to Eau Claire, of the Northern League, where he posted a 13-9 record. Brown says Huebner has come up with a curve ball and looks "a lot better" this spring.

Among other Braves who have played against the Foxes before are pitcher Bill Holmes, infielders Joe Trenary and Ron Hunt and outfielders Steve Ryder and Marcial Allen.

There have been two additions to the Fox Valley Lutheran track schedule. The Foxes welcome Winnebago Lutheran of Fond du Lac May 9 and meet Appleton Xavier May 16 in dual meets.

Probation of Auburn Teams

Council Bans Organized Summer Cage Competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today is expected to end probation and permit Auburn University once again to take part in NCAA-sponsored championships and bowl games.

A top NCAA source said the decision would come when the council acted on a report by the committee on infractions, which has been reviewing the athletic "policies and practices" of the Alabama school. The council ends a three-day meeting today.

Auburn has been on probation for player recruiting rule violations since 1956. It is the longest penalty handed any NCAA member since 1952, when the NCAA began enforcement of its code on recruiting of athletes.

Summer Completion

The council Tuesday banned organized summer basketball competition. Players taking part in such summer basketball could not play college basketball under the proposal by the NCAA council.

Most organized summer basketball is played either in the Los Angeles area or in the Eastern United States. New York's Catskill Mountain resorts, the so-called "Borscht Circuit," is a hot bed of summer basketball.

NCAA Executive Secretary Walter Byers said the council refused to delay by one year a new ban on participation of high school football players in all-star football games.

The 1961 NCAA convention adopted the new rule. Some promoters of all-star games had asked that it be eased for some games this year.

Nottebart to Start Tonight; Mathews Ups Average to .412

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Notes of the Milwaukee Braves-St. Louis Cardinals game Tuesday night:

The Cardinals continued to complain that Lew Burdette was throwing a spitball at them all night.

"He was throwing 'em (the spitballs) from the first inning on," Cardinal Manager Solly Hemus complained after the game.

"We must have called for the umpire to take a look at the ball some eight or nine times."

Don Nottebart is slated to take the mound for Milwaukee tonight, going against Larry Jackson who recently returned to action after being on the injured list for several weeks with a broken jaw.

Eddie Mathews continues to set the batting pace for the Braves. He got three for four Tuesday night and now boasts an average of .412 with 14 hits in 34 times at bat. Hank Aaron is hitting .333. Logan has .500 on one for two.

Mel Roach had his glasses bumped off in a collision with Hal Smith in the third inning and then had them broken as he slid back into the bag in the sixth. Roach probably will give way to Joe Adcock at first base in tonight's game.

WAUPACA — A survey Sunday by Wisconsin conservation wardens on the Wolf River from New London to Orihula indicated that the white bass run will be starting soon.

Rex Oatman, county warden, and his assistants, talked to 329 fishermen along the way. They reported catching 24 white bass, 51 crappies, 13 northern pike, 117 walleye pike and eight catfish.

Oatman reported that the survey also indicated that the catch of walleyes was evenly distributed. He said that fishermen were catching the same amount upstream and downstream.

The survey also indicated that the pike run is slowing down. Most of the pike were small. The crappies were caught in

Drop Gambling Charge Against Dawn Fraser

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — A local court has withdrawn a gambling charge against Australian swimming star Dawn Fraser and police apologized for holding the olympian.

Miss Fraser was arrested Sunday and charged with loitering under Australia's lottery and gaming act. Legal experts explained that the loitering charge is used to hold a suspect for investigation.

Don Dunstan, labor member of parliament, said he would call for a full police report on the incident when the legislature meets in June.

Miss Fraser, who is appearing in swimming carnivals to aid the national heart campaign, said she has been pestered by telephone calls from all over Australia asking her about the incident. Both she and the police refused to discuss the circumstances of the arrest.

You see, in today's driving, with new suspension systems and faster speeds, you get terrific loads on your tires' outside edges, little in the center—whether you're driving straight, passing, turning a corner or stopping.

Barber Hurls Orioles To Third Win in Last Four Games

A's Romp Over Twins, 20-2; Conley Pitches Bosox Victory

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It begins to look as though the Baltimore Orioles finally may be on the move in the American League race. They now have won three of their last four games, after losing five of the first six.

A year ago, the baby Birds also blew five of their first six games, then clicked off five straight and began to roll toward their near-miss, second-place finish.

Steve Barber, who contributed 10 victories to the Birds' surge last season as a rookie, put away his second victory in a 5-2 decision over the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

Roll Up 20 Runs
The Kansas City A's rolled up their third highest run total ever in a 20-2 romp over the Minnesota Twins and the Boston Red Sox whipped the Washington Senators 6-1 in the only other games played in the AL. New York at Detroit and Los Angeles at Chicago were rained out.

Shiocton one in the game. Junior lefty Boss struck out eight and walked two for Wincom. The two hits off him were a scratch single by Page in the fifth and a clean single by Mike McCrone in the sixth. McCrone went the distance for the losers and got the loss. He allowed seven hits, struck out nine and walked four.

Ahead to Stay
The Wolves went on top to stay with two runs in the first. Roger Brill doubled, Wayne Combs singled to score Brill, stole second and scored on Martin Day's single. Brill got the game's only extra base hits, a pair of 2-baggers. Brockman, a junior right-hander, struck out 12 and walked just two. The only hit he allowed was a single over the second base line by Roger Behnke in the fourth inning — a wrong-field blow by a right-handed batter who swung late.

Brockman also has a 5-hit victory to his credit. Freedom tallied a singleton in the second and then exploded for 10 runs in the fifth. In that frame there were seven hits — two for extra bases — two errors, two walks and a hit batsman. Hilbert starter Jim Winkler was KOD in the big fifth. He was followed by Pingel and Ron Harder.

Freedom totaled 12 hits in the game, originally Hilbert's home contest but played at Freedom because the diamond was in better condition. Shusta fanned 11 and walked four. He's a senior right-hander. The losing pitcher, Paul Krueger, also went the distance, allowing eight hits, walking three and fanning three.

Denmark scored three runs in the last of the fifth to erase a 3-2 deficit. In that frame there were singles by: Darrell Lemmens, Doug Jirovets and Gary Luedtke, a walk, three stolen bases, a wild pitch and an error.

Tigers Appear to Have Been Most Successful in Winter Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — On the basis of early returns, the Detroit Tigers appear to have been the most successful in their various off-season player maneuvers.

The Tigers, off to a blazing start with eight in a row after dropping their first game, came out of winter deals with Milwaukee and others a first-string catcher in Dick Brown, a regular center fielder in Billy Bruton and two capable relief pitchers in Terry Fox and Jim Donohue.

To fill the gap left by the departure of Frank Bolling, the Tigers moved up Jake Wood, 23, a widely heralded rookie from their Denver farm. Wood is hitting .286 and has turned out to be a good leadoff man.

Infield Reserve

With Bruton hitting in the No. 2 hole and Steve Boros, another rookie, playing third base and hitting .333, the new faces are paying off in Tiger Stadium. Chuck Cottier, also acquired from the Braves, is a capable infield reserve behind Chico Fernandez.

Perhaps the most important of all was the acquisition of Brown, former Chicago White Sox and Cleveland catcher who went to

Other low scores: Jim McDonald, 74; Don Jabas, 78 and 79; John Lindberg, 79; Harvey Lhost, 78; Mike Cochran, 78; the Rev. Richard Keller, 76 (his all-time low) and Karl Baldwin, 79.

Zephyr Coach Defends Trip's Value

WCIAA's National Tourney Ban Is Mistake, Says McClone

Ralph McClone, coach of the Menasha St. Mary High School basketball team, feels the Wisconsin Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association made a mistake in banning participation in national tournaments.

"If they the voting principals had been at the Newport, R.I. tournament this year, they'd be for it 100 per cent," said McClone.

McClone called the Zephyrs' trip to the Eastern States tournament several weeks ago "a tremendous educational experience."

He pointed out that Newport is a city rich in history. In addition, there's an extra-athletic program with a vital theme presented in connection with the tourney each year. In 1961, the theme was "Communism," and J. Edgar Hoover was among the distinguished speakers.

McClone said the trip doesn't overemphasize athletics, because the boys missed only three days of school. Many schools, including St. Mary's, sponsor spring trips to Washington, D.C., and the students are gone for as long as a week, McClone pointed out.

The Zephyr coach said the Racine St. Catherine, cage team, which has played in a Washington tournament the last two years, has also gleaned much educational value from its trips.

seconds. Crites pitched the iron ball 53 feet, 5 inches to tie his own Manitowoc school record.

AHS trailed (6-5 to North) only after the first event. The hosts went ahead to stay with a big-gapped victory in the sprint medley.

Dick Bunn, probably the brightest AHS sophomore cinderman since John Cotton, opened with a 15-yard lead by legging the 440 in an unofficial 52.5 seconds. In the 220s, Pete Kafura and Jim Hill added to the lead. Unextended, Bill Weber wrapped it up with a 2:07.3 "880." The elapsed time, of 3:46.6 was a good performance in view of the low temperatures and wet conditions.

Closes Gap

In the most exciting race of the day, Glasheen won the 440 in :54.6. Second most of the way to Manty's Gene Grotheck. Glasheen closed the gap on the final turn, and then powered ahead in the last 30 yards to win by a stride.

AHS' Phil Nordgren ran a 4:46.5 mile — the best of his career. Nordgren stayed two yards behind the favored Fred Schuler, of Manitowoc, for the first two laps. Midway in the third lap, Nordgren forged ahead. He called on his reserve energy in the final 220 yards and took complete charge, winning by more than 15 yards. Schuler faded and yielded second place to North's Ehler.

In the 880-yard relay, Pete Kafura whisked to the front and opened a 2-stride advantage. On a wobbly exchange between Kafura and Bunn, AHS temporarily lost the lead to North. But, Bunn rocketed past his Raider adversary and batted Wayne Polzin to a 3-stride lead. The husky senior preserved the margin, and anchor-man Hill finished the job impressively — giving the unit a total clocking of 1:36.05.

Running his best low hurdles race of the season, Gendron missed narrowly catching Genzler as he chased his rival to a new Raider record.

Brown County May Not Get Another Court

Bar Association
Severely Criticized
For Making Request

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Leaders of the Brown County Bar Association were surprised Tuesday when they were criticized for asking the legislature to authorize a third branch of the County Court in Brown County effective in May of 1962.

The legislature this year has approved at least half a dozen similar requests. But Tuesday the Brown County Bar Association ran into hostile questions from the assembly judiciary committee and hostile testimony from the Judicial Council and the League of Women Voters.

Emily Dodge, executive secretary of the council, told the legislative committee that the council wants to see how the court reorganization act will work out before the judicial manpower quota for Brown County is enlarged.

The county now has a circuit court, county court and municipal court. As of Jan. 1, 1962 it will have two branches of the circuit court and two branches of the county court.

3 Admit Taking Beer for Party

One Man Placed on Probation, 2 Others
Pay $25 Fines

One man was placed on probation for a year and two others fined $25 in Municipal Court Tuesday for stealing a half barrel of beer for a party.

The probation sentence of Jerome Schnese, 25, 1425 N. Viola St., also included a charge of stealing an automobile carburetor. The other two involved in the beer theft were Patrick Donohue, 22, 1408 N. Gillett St., and James Delie, 20, 903 N. Bennett St.

Appleton police found the trio Saturday night by following up a missing car complaint and a complaint from Otto's Bar, 1308 W. Wisconsin Ave., about the missing beer.

Police saw a car that had been reported missing in front of Schnese's house. The car had been taken to the service station where Schnese worked for repairs and had not been returned.

When police entered Schnese's house, a beer party was in progress. Later, when the complaint about the missing beer came in, police returned to Schnese's house and questioned those at the party. They also questioned Donohue at his home. He was not at the party. The three admitted the theft.

A police detective checked Schnese's car for a carburetor. The reported stolen March 1 at the filling station where Schnese worked. He found it.

All three admitted the theft charges in court. The beer was valued at $19 and the carburetor valued at $71.

Statue of Chief Red Bird to be Mounted on Rock at High Cliff Park

MENASHA — Chief Red Bird, Some who will be at the college were being repaired and brazed onto Red Bird by the firm today.

The chief will overlook the northeast corner of Lake Winnebago.

The Banta Foundation announced its offer of the statue Nov. 17, 1958. George Banta Jr., chairman of the board of George Banta Co., recalled that a wooden cigar store Indian once had stood near the statue's site.

Most Famous

Red Bird probably was the most famous Winnebago Indian chief, according to state historians, and was the object of a famous trial in 1827 at Prairie du Chien.

Red Bird was charged with leading a party of Indians that scalped two men and a child.

He was remembered as being "most perfect in form, face and gesture," with proportions of the most exact symmetry and "a nobly built man of the highest order of intelligence."

Red Bird was convicted and imprisoned, where he reportedly died of crushed hopes and a broken heart.

County Could Lose Detention Rights

Struck County Jailer

Order Mental Test For Unruly Prisoner

Marvin Barth, 21, 733 W. Spencer St., who admitted disorderly conduct at a hospital where he was taken after a police chase and car crash, acted up again in the Outagamie County Jail and was committed to Central State Hospital.

Barth was handcuffed when brought into Municipal Court Tuesday.

Acting jailer Edward Metko said at the preliminary hearing Barth hit him in the face and neck many times and banged his arm against the wall Sunday. Other prisoners had to pull Barth off, Metko said.

Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer told Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg that Barth, since he was booked in at the jail April 8, had started a fire, broken a window, attacked Metko, frightened a child in a doctor's office and threatened a nurse and the Outagamie County patrolman who arrested him after the chase and accident.

Driven By Brother

Marvin Barth was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Robert, 18, April 1, when Outagamie County patrolman Calvin Spice chased them at over 100 m.p.h. from a Freedom beer bar into Kaukauna. Robert Barth's car struck a tree in Kaukauna, ending the chase. Marvin was hospitalized at Kaukauna after the crash.

Robert Barth received one of the stiffest penalties ever given out for a traffic violation in Municipal Court here. He is in jail for a minimum of six months.

Marvin was brought into court April 10 to answer charges of disorderly conduct at the hospital. Hospital officials said he was

Not Complying With Statute On Women

Outagamie County today is faced with the threat of losing its right to detain female prisoners in present jail quarters.

V. A. Verhulst, detention superintendent for the State Department of Public Welfare, has written County Board Chairman Alvin Fulmer that that possibility exists if the county fails to comply within 30 days with state statutes covering matron service in the jail.

Sheriff Robert Heinritz told the Post-Crescent that if the female detention quarters are closed, the county would be forced to transfer its women prisoners to the closest security institution which has full matron service. The sheriff said he believed it would mean taking prisoners to Milwaukee.

Move to Comply

Verhulst said the law requires that a matron must be on duty and awake at all times when a female prisoner is under detention. He said Outagamie County must move to comply with the law within 30 days "or action may be taken to rescind the approval for female detention."

Copies of the letter were sent to Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer, County Clerk Mollie Pfeffer, Supv. Gerhart Ruhsam and Sheriff Heinritz.

The sheriff said, in his opinion, compliance with the law would necessitate hiring four matrons with one to be on a standby basis. Roughly, he said, one would

Parking Study To be Started

Preliminary Report Will be Submitted In 30 to 40 Days

NEENAH — A parking study being conducted in Neenah by Kenneth L. Schellie and Associates, Indianapolis, Ind., will get underway this week.

The parking study is the second phase of a comprehensive parking and traffic survey being conducted in Neenah, sponsored by the city and the Chamber of Commerce. The traffic phase, which included Menasha, was conducted in March.

A preliminary report with tentative suggestions for traffic and parking improvements will be submitted by Schellie in the next 30 to 40 days.

The possibility of a new post office for Neenah was discussed at a meeting Tuesday. The proposal was suggested in a planning survey made several years ago.

The present post office is considered too small and parking facilities inadequate.

Miss Lois Hellerman, teacher at Trinity Lutheran School, Neenah, will teach girls' physical education and sophomore English at Fox Valley Lutheran High School next school year.

Appleton Board Opens Bids for Work Costing Half Million Dollars

Price of Wisconsin Avenue Ornamental Lighting a Third More Than Expected

Bids for public works projects, which will be awarded at the board's meeting next week, million dollars, were opened by the Appleton's board of public works Tuesday. Bids for one project, Wisconsin Avenue lighting, Richmond to Drew Streets, but total about one-third more than the board is likely to reject both, unless it is willing to ask for a budget transfer from the general public works and electrical department for tabulation. Both bids are considerably higher than anticipated. The council has budgeted $32,000 for the entire project — installation and purchase of materials.

Assessment Set

Stephenson Electric, Appleton, bid $33,900 to install the lights. The bid of Superior Electric, Appleton, is $27,900.

Bids for purchasing materials will run about $11,000. Bids were accepted on an item by item basis, and need to be tabulated before the low bidder can be determined. However, three of the nine bidders submitted package bids and all were just under $11,000.

The board already has set the front foot assessment rate at $5, the same as it was for ornamental lighting downtown. If the job is going to cost the one-third more than anticipated, it appears the city will have to absorb the extra cost or increase the assessment rate.

Assessment rates can be lowered by board action. To increase

Miss Rechtygl to Leave

Appleton Librarian to Retire After 12 Years

The retirement of Miss Edith Rechtygl, chief librarian of Appleton Public Library for 12 years, was approved by the library board Tuesday night.

Miss Rechtygl will take her month's vacation during September and retire Oct. 1. She announced no plans beyond that.

In her resignation letter, Miss Rechtygl said the chief librarian's job has been a challenge. Monetary reward for the work came late, she wrote. The library staff has worked harmoniously, she commented.

Miss Rechtygl has been head librarian since July, 1949, when she came from Virginia, Minn. She attended Carroll College and the University of Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Library School.

During her term here, Appleton Public Library has grown from 63,684 books in 1950 to 102,845 books in 1960. The number of borrowers grew from 12,583 to 18,276, and staff from 10 full-time and one part-time to 15 full-time and four part-time during the decade.

City appropriation for the library grew from $42,108 to $107,497 and county appropriation from $2,750 to $6,300 a year in the period.

Miss Rechtygl provided much of the push behind the $244,000 library remodeling project completed in 1955. At that time, the library expanded into the second floor of the building it had occupied for 55 years. The building received a new front and lighter, more spacious interior.

Miss Rechtygl read to the library board an article she wrote during the remodeling, describing problems of moving books from place to place, operating the library while construction was going on, being delayed by strikes and shortages and keeping books that it was worth it.

The board also accepted the resignation of Miss Bonnie Jean Harris, assistant in the children's department for two years. She will end in 1955. At that time, the library's second graduate school in library science beginning June 19.

Miss Louverne Hendrickson, Wisconsin Rapids, was hired as librarian's secretary, a job which includes keeping financial and employment records.

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Out-of-date facilities and a lengthening list of part-time prisoners make maximum security at the Outagamie County Jail increasingly difficult.

It is possible to smuggle drugs, razor blades or knives, among other things, into some cell blocks.

And while it might be difficult to engineer an escape from inside the jail, a break into the facility, considered equally dangerous, could be done with ease.

Sheriff Robert Heinritz has ordered round-the-clock vigilance and stiff counter-measures to avoid trouble. But he says his staff is too small and the problem too complex to insure the type of security the jail requires.

These are some of the conditions which exist as the County Board ponders which way it will move in providing new courthouse facilities.

Basic Problem

As the sheriff sees it, the basic problem stems from the physical makeup of the jail itself — a condition which makes it necessary to house Huber Law prisoners in a cell block adjacent to lock-up prisoners. In fact, the sheriff is sometimes compelled to mix lock-up and Huber Law inmates.

A prisoner sentenced under the Huber Law is permitted to work outside of jail at his regular job. He checks out and into the jail to go to and from work. His schedule is watched and if he does not maintain it, he is checked.

These prisoners are housed in a four-cell, 16-bunk block just across the corridor from two lock-up cell blocks.

There are times when the number of day parole prisoners exceeds the block's 16-bed capacity. It then is necessary to make use of cell blocks set aside for other purposes. If there are no male juvenile prisoners, for instance, five additional bunks become available. Or the overflow may be put in the women's section if there are no female prisoners.

Sanitary Problem

When filled to capacity, the present Huber Law block also presents a sanitary problem. The quarters are small and, in the heat of summer, become akin to a "tank."

But the great danger is less of security. It is impossible under present conditions for jailers to "shake down" each day parole prisoner returning from work.

This is the Cell Block in the Outagamie County Jail which houses Huber Law prisoners. Each of the four individual cells contains four bunks making total capacity 16 prisoners.

Waupaca Supervisors Attempt To Salve Wounds of Boaters

Explanation of Criticism On Wolf River Activity Falls Anchor Line Short of Apology

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — A delegation of Waupaca County supervisors voiced assurances to fishermen and boaters here Tuesday night that sharp criticism from some board members of boating activity on the Wolf River was not intended to insult anyone.

The explanation, which fell just half an anchor-line short of an outright apology, came at a special meeting of the New London Boat Club at the American Legion building.

About 65 persons were on hand for the session which was designed, Commodore Al Schafer declared, to "settle this thing once and for all." Just how much was actually settled by the time the session adjourned is uncertain but the meeting, attended mostly by boaters, did give everyone a chance to speak his mind.

Oatman Sturm

Remarks on the County Board floor by Marion Supv. Fred Hoffman, in which he was recorded as suggesting fishermen fling empty beer bottles at reckless boatmen, had settled like a sour fog over club members.

No Intentions

Supv. Carl Sturm, Manawa, said he was sure Hoffman had no intention, when he made his remarks, of hurting or insulting any boater or fisherman. Sturm said he agreed with Waupaca County Conservation Warden Rex Oatman who told the meeting Hoffman simply intended to emphasize the need to curtail reckless boat operation.

Schafer said it was not the club's intention to condemn anyone but it became apparent throughout the discussion that boaters have at least as many gripes about fishermen as fishermen have about boaters.

Safety Patrol

Schafer said the boat club would welcome a safety patrol on the river. "That's what we want," he said. "That's why we are organized. . . to promote safety." (The Waupaca Board has authorized the hiring of a water patrolman for the Wolf.)

Oatman said it was his opinion boaters need not worry about regulation of motor sizes in the New London area for some years to come.

At the Waupaca County Conservation Congress meetings earlier this month, sportsmen voted to ask the Conservation Department to make a study of the Wolf River with an eye to placing control over the size of outboards operated on the river.

Overloading Boats

Leo Brezinski, Northport, one of Waupaca County's delegates to the Congress, said he believed it is "outsiders" who are causing most of the trouble. He declared he, personally, knew of no member of the New London Boat Club who ever operated a boat recklessly.

Look Into Bill

Jack Zuelzke, Appleton, suggested the club look into a bill currently pending in the legislature which would make it mandatory for a power-driven boat to operate no faster than 5 miles an hour within 200 feet of any shore or fisherman. "If this bill is passed," he warned, "there'll be no boat traffic at all up the Wolf."

Oatman admitted the bill has the support of the Conservation Department but said exceptions certainly would be written into it to cover the Wolf.

Zuelzke also urged club members to aid enforcement personnel by reporting boats operating recklessly. "But you have to do more than simply report it," he said. "You should be willing to sign a complaint and testify in court. That's the way to put a stop to these 'cowboys,'" he declared.

Bob Polaske, of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, said his organization will be holding boat safety inspections at Appleton May 20 and at New London May 21.

Newspaper Last Vestige of Good Reading

Publisher Makes Assertion at Kaukauna Meeting

KAUKAUNA — A community newspaper is the last vestige of good reading available, a Wisconsin publisher told Quill and Scroll journalists at a Lions Club banquet here Tuesday night.

Kenneth L. Larson, editor and publisher of the Kiel Tri-County Record, told high school journalists a newspaper must seek to improve its community, provide a public service to citizens and work to gain respect through performance and leadership.

This was the twenty-fifth Lions-sponsored program to honor high school students who help put out three school publications. James Lang and Guy Krumm, co-chairmen of the program, spoke as did Karen Lindemuth, president of Quill and Scroll.

Present Pins
James Schlude was master of ceremonies. Miss Lindemuth presented a bouquet of roses to Miss Frances Corry, society adviser. High school faculty members and administrators were introduced.

Miss Corry presented editor, circulation manager, business staff and staff writer pins to 44 seniors. She spoke on the background of the high school publications and told of the importance of a proficiency in writing. Clarence Baumgartner, Lions president, opened and closed the program while Anton Berkers, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Monagan, led community singing.

Maximum Security at Jail Hard to Maintain

Jailers are required to do a number of time-consuming things. These involve, briefly, maintaining numerous records involving detailed clerical work. They must check visitors in and out of jail. They must supervise feeding hours and all other normal functions of jail operation. Sometimes a jailer may be kept rushing for an hour or more while booking in a prisoner, checking in visitors, etc. Thus, if a Huber Law prisoner is checking in at that time the task of immediately "frisking" him is all but impossible. Prisoners check in at all hours of the day and night. The scope of the problem becomes apparent.

Thus it is possible for a returning prisoner to bring contraband to someone inside the lock-up section. Items most likely to find a way through the security screen are small, thin objects such as knives or razor blades. More bulky items, such as guns and liquor bottles, probably could not make it.

The door to the southeast cell block (used for lock-up prisoners) faces the corridor used by day parolees and is across the corridor from the block where these men live. Each door in the jail is equipped with a small section of glass to provide visual contact with prisoners inside and there is a screen-mesh device through which talking is possible.

Under the door to the southeast cell block there is a gap wide enough for a flat object to be slipped through. Sheriff Heinritz demonstrated this by thrusting two cell block keys, one on top of the other, under the door.

Not a Secret

This "leak" in the security system is not a secret. The prisoners know of it. So do the sheriff and the jailers. But there is nothing that can be done about it short of major remodeling, according to the sheriff. The door must be replaced if other arrangements are not made, Heinritz said.

When it becomes necessary to house day parolees with lockup prisoners, each man is searched before being allowed to enter the cell block. But even this procedure is not foolproof. Small items could be overlooked.

Time will not ease the problem. "We have had as many as 25 Huber Law prisoners here at one time," the sheriff says. "This summer we may exceed that figure."

A solitary confinement cell near the Huber Law detention has no "solitary" value. Prisoners can see and talk with any inmate in the cell.

The elevator entry to the jail section is a security hazard, the sheriff says. Anyone can enter the jail during the day simply by ringing for the elevator and punching the "jail" button. The elevator goes up, the door slides open and you stand facing the book-in desk and jailers' section. This procedure, too, is not secret. The elevator is used hundreds of times them, a new public hearing must be held.

All of the underground conduit at street intersections along Wisconsin Avenue was installed when the street was rebuilt several years ago. That is the reason the board expected the project to cost less than it did to put in the lights downtown.

That also is the reason the front foot assessment rate was made the same as downtown. It was expected for a time that the Wisconsin Avenue rate might be less. The city's labor rates for public works projects and the price of materials both have gone up.

Apparent low bidders for other work were:

Concrete paving — Wieseler Construction Co., Appleton, $345,306. There were three other bidders, the highest of which was for $367,234.

Sanitary and storm sewers — Central Contracting Co., Oshkosh, $74,199. There were two other bidders, with $88,565 the highest.

Asphalt surfacing — Courtney and Plummer, Neenah, $64,632, and one other bid for $65,870.

Appleton Men to Lead Talks at Building, Fire Inspectors' Session

The annual Wisconsin Building and Fire Inspectors' Institute will be held at the Conway Hotel and Appleton Club Thursday and Friday.

Inspectors from about 200 communities are expected to attend.

Chief Alfred Arnold and Bogan will give the introductory addresses at 9:30 a. m. Thursday, when the two groups will have a joint session in the Appleton Club.

The building inspectors sessions will be held in the Michigan Room of the Conway Hotel. Fire inspectors will have their meetings in the Appleton Club. But members of both groups are free to attend each others sessions.

Guest speaker for the dinner Thursday will be Mathias F. Schimenz, Milwaukee, chairman of the state industrial commission.

There will be about 27 speakers for the institute, each a specialist in his own field of building or fire prevention.

Discussion Topics

Topics for the building inspectors include such things as new construction techniques in concrete, architectural control and unit masonry construction.

Included on the fire inspectors agenda are the new state flammable liquids code, chemistry of fire and pre-fire planning so that fires can be extinguished quickly.

The institute will close Friday afternoon with another joint meeting, which includes a panel discussion on the responsibility of coboisterous and abusive. He pleaded not guilty but changed his plea to guilty the next day. He was sentenced to 40 days in jail.

Attacked in Cell

Metko said the Sunday incident started early in the morning when Marvin began banging on the cell bars with his shoes. This kept up until noon when Metko went to retrieve Barth's dinner tray. Metko said Barth would not pass his tray out of the cell and told Metko to come in after it. When he went in, the jailer said, Barth ran out of the cell.

Metko said he punched Barth in the stomach after Barth's first attack. When Barth was back in the cell, Metko said Barth hit him on the head and neck and banged Metko's arm on the wall.

Outagamie County Deputy Sheriff and jailer Anthony Van Wymeren said Marvin had been a "continuous problem" during his confinement and agreed that Barth had threatened the policeman and nurse.

Marvin denied the charge of resisting an officer. The judge called for an immediate preliminary hearing because the case was of "an emergency nature."

The judge, after the hearing,

Leaflet Being Prepared on New School

Designed to Help Kimberly Citizens Have Voice in Plans

KIMBERLY — To develop a better understanding of the new high school being planned at Kimberly, John Gerritts, business manager for the school system, is preparing a leaflet which will be made available to all people of the community.

The leaflet will include a history of the educational program in the community and enrollment trends. Graphs of kindergarten and high school enrollment and a graph of the high school graduating seniors will be incorporated into the booklet.

Residents will be able to see how 75 seniors will be graduated this year and, through a study of census figures, the village will have 225 graduating seniors in 1970. Future enrollment figures indicate 52 teaching stations will be needed in high school.

Finance Picture

Gerritts said a table on finances will be prepared which will show the cost to taxpayers over a period of years. This will include the amount of money needed now to erect a satisfactory building, the amount needed to staff the structure and future costs to meet growth of the community.

The leaflet will include a page showing the work already done by architects, work which must still be done and a rough sketch of the proposed high school building.

After the leaflet is completed, Gerritts will meet with organizations to discuss its contents in an effort to give all residents an opportunity to have a voice in construction. The school board is contemplating special public meetings in the auditorium to give residents an opportunity to be heard.

Gerritts said a thorough study of the booklet should prove helpful to residents and the school board so that all may work together in developing this project.

GOP Leaders Give Answer To Governor

Say Nelson Could Have Submitted Program Earlier

MADISON (AP) — Republican Assembly leaders contended the 1961 legislative session has been productive and added that more progress would have been made if the governor had submitted his program earlier.

In a news conference called by Assembly Speaker David Blanchard, R-Edgerton, the GOP leaders answered Gov. Gaylord Nelson's charges that the session has been "the most fruitless in the last 12 years."

Blanchard said the governor must have been "upset when he made his inaccurate statements."

Blanchard said "we are up with our calendar and we feel taxpayers are getting their money's worth."

The Republicans submitted figures to support their claim that more work has been accomplished at this stage of the present session than at the same point in the 1959 meeting.

Blanchard said that Republicans had advanced their own programs to fill the void they said the governor had not filled. He listed Republican-sponsored measures dealing with finances, tax revisions and conservation.

Blanchard stated that more than $800,000 was spent in the operation of the 1959 session and predicted this session will cost taxpayers about $600,000.

Pattern of Delay

"One of the most exasperating things we face," Blanchard said, "is the pattern of delay in presenting fiscal notes to the Legislature."

The Speaker said sessions would continue on a three-day a week basis until the work load justifies a change.

The Republicans strongly criticized Tax Commissioner John Gronowski and Department of Administration Commissioner Joe Nusbaum for "abusing the purpose of fiscal notes," and said these notes now are meaningless.

State Suffers Schizophrenia, Speaker Says

Howard Angermeyer
Questions Status of Dummy Corporations

The Wisconsin state building commission is apparently suffering from a touch of schizophrenia, or split personality, in its approach to state construction plans, according to Howard J. Angermeyer, Neenah plumbing contractor who heads the Wisconsin Association of Plumbing Contractors.

Angermeyer, who addressed the Central Valley Plumbing and Heating Contractors Association at Conway Hotel last night, said that the state was hiding behind the cloak of a private corporation in the manner in which it has advertised for bids on approximately $18 million worth of construction proposed in the two state office buildings.

Because financing of the projects is being done through the state's dummy building corporations, the commission has been advised that it need not conform to statutes applying to construction work owned by a public body, Angermeyer explained.

Explains Law
"State law," he explained, "requires that on all work owned by a public body, including the state, separate contracts be let on the mechanical phases of the work, the plumbing, heating and venting, and electrical branches. This is the method which long experience has shown to all large private corporations and municipal awarding authorities is the most economical, as well as assuring the most responsible bids and the best qualified mechanical contractor on the job."

The plumbing association head said that the building commission had taken an opposite position less than a year ago with respect to its "private building corporation."

Suggests Consistency
"When it contemplated a new building for the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee," he said, "the state was advised by the City of Milwaukee that it would be expected to take out the necessary building permits and submit to the usual local building inspections."

"On that occasion, the state's official opinion was that the owner actually was the state, even though the financing and adminis-

Empty School Bus, Truck Collide; No One Injured

FOREST JUNCTION — A flat-bed, welding truck was extensively damaged when it collided with an empty Kaukauna High School bus at County Trunk M and U.S. 10 at 7:04 a.m. today. No one was injured.

According to Patrolman Don Kossman, Robert G. Vandewoort, 21, 1221 Hillcrest Drive, Kaukauna, drove the bus into the rear side of the truck driven and owned by Francis J. Hardy, 38, route 1, Hortonville.

The impact spun the truck around and tipped it on its side. Kossman said the truck skidded about 30 feet on its side until it hit and ripped off a steel guard rail and flipped back on its wheels.

Vandewoort told Kossman he stopped before entering 10 from the north. He said he did not see any traffic.

No Fox Cities Merit Scholars

Oshkosh Youth Is Only Area Winner
Of National Honor

No Fox Cities students are among the 26 Wisconsin recipients of National Merit Scholarships whose names were announced today.

Stephen B. Klix, 922 W. New York Ave., Oshkosh, a senior at Oshkosh High School, is the only winner from this area. He will study electrical engineering at the University of Wisconsin on a Kimberly-Clark Merit Scholarship.

Nearly 1,000 U. S. students received the awards, which provide four years of education at the colleges of their choice.

Nine Wisconsin students were named National Merit scholars, 10 won sponsored scholarships and even received honorary citations.

No sums were disclosed for the merit scholarship winners, since awards depend on the ability of the student to pay. However, none are for less than $100, and stipends range up to $1,000 a year.

tration was in the hands of one of its 'private' corporations, and that therefore, as the state, it was not subject to local ordinances."

"All that we suggest," Angermeyer concluded, "is that the state cannot reasonably expect to be the state when it suits its convenience, and a private corporation when the latter seems more expedient."

A Guest at Appleton Lions Club's meeting Monday was William Decher, center, of Duisburg, Germany. His host, Arliss French, left, met Decher on his much-publicized trip to Mars (Germany) as a promotion stunt. Harold Arbeiter, Lions Club secretary, gives the guest a name tag

Your Money's Worth

Franchise Buying Booming Business

BY SYLVIA PORTER

You can earn a nice living in your own business by investing in a franchise permitting you to operate, say, a drive-in eating place, a roadside stand, an automatic laundry, a dry-cleaning unit, etc. — If you buy from a reputable firm, if you are licensed to sell in a good territory, if you are given sufficient training, if you work for your profits.

Porter

The fact that you can prosper

Third of Series

explains why franchise selling has grown so rapidly in the last few years, why there are now hundreds of franchise companies licensing tens upon tens of thousands of businesses to sell a tremendous variety of products and services.

You also can lose your nestegg and break your heart — If you are tricked into investing with a fly-by-night outfit which will license you to sell an unsaleable product or service, give you a "new, exclusive" territory which is neither new nor exclusive, put you on your own after only a day or two of training, etc.

This fact explains why "questionable franchise deals" were ranked in No. 2 place among consumer frauds last year by the National Better Business Bureau and a spokesman for the Association of Better Business Bureaus told me that, one of the greatest services a series of this sort can perform is warning those interested in buying franchises of the pitfalls and the facts they must get for their own protection before investing.

In broad outline, when you invest in a franchise, you buy the exclusive right to sell specified products or services in a defined territory under terms set forth in the contract you sign. At its best, a franchise gives you a chance to be in your own business with the right to sell known products or services under a national name and with the guidance of an experienced franchiser behind you.

At worst, a franchise can be a swindle and a trap.

Here are guides to safeguard you if you're considering a franchise deal now or ever consider one in the future:

(1) As soon as you answer an advertisement offering a franchise deal and get the initial literature, you'll have significant clues to the type of operation it is. Be warned if the ad is a blind one giving only a Post Office Box number and not revealing the name of the company or the details of the offering. Be warned too if the franchiser's representative who calls on you later arranges meetings only in restaurants or bars and tries to rush you into signing an agreement.

(2) Once you've decided to pursue the deal, immediately check the franchiser's reputation with the local Better Business Bureau. This is a must. Also find out what information you can get on the firm from a trade association or trade journal in the field, the nearest Chamber of Commerce, your bank or lawyer. Don't just accept the franchiser's references; check them yourself.

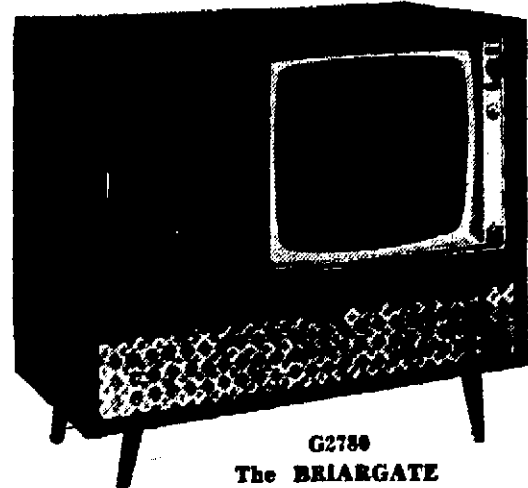

Get Answers

(3) Assuming that so far everything appears fine, ask and get satisfactory answers to such key questions as these. On the offering firm: How long has it been in business? What is its financial record? How selective is it in choosing holders of its franchises? On the product: How long has it been on the market? Is it competitively priced, attractively packaged? Would you buy it on its merits? Is it a staple or a fad, an all-year seller or a seasonal item? On the territory: Is it completely defined and your exclusive representation thoroughly protected? Is the territory large enough, increasing or decreasing in population? How have former franchisers made out in the territory, and how are nearby franchisers making out? On your contract and relationship with the franchiser: Does your own attorney say the contract protects you? Does the franchiser pledge sufficient training for you and continuing guidance?

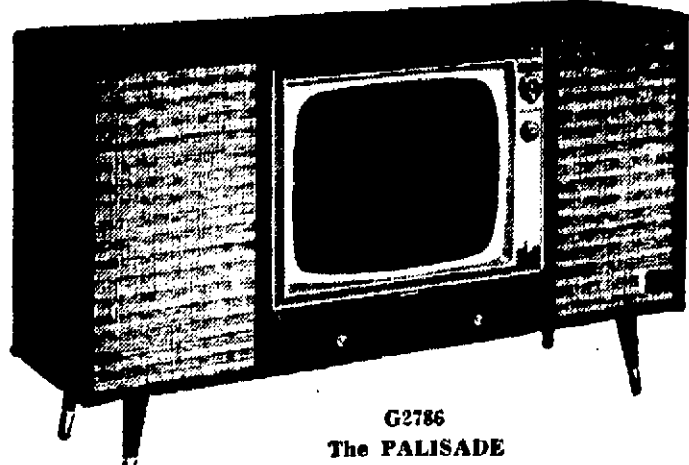

Of course, the above is sketchy, but with this as a beginning, you can get the additional advice you need.

Milwaukee Theater Produces First Wisconsin Musical Successfully

Fred Miller Troupe Stages Tuneful, Witty, Colorful Combination of Song and Dance

BY JAY JOSELYN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — A dreamboat was launched Tuesday night at the Fred Miller Theater with its course laid for a berth along the Great White Way and if the reception at its launching is any criterion it'll reach its port.

Broadway or not, "Adam the Creator" will mark up an imposing enough list of firsts to be long remembered at the theater, in Milwaukee and the entire state.

"Adam" is the first musical produced for and by Milwaukeeans. It is the first musical of any kind the Miller has booked in opposition to another Milwaukee-playing musical. "Fiorello" opened last night in another theater and "Flower Drum Song" moves in against "Adam" in the third week.

First Effort

"Adam" is the first musical from the pen of Sam Lawent, a legally trained lyricist and composer. It is the first such adaptation from play to musical for Ray Boyle, the Miller director who wrote the book. It is the first time a translucent stage, produced for the show, has been seen anywhere in the Midwest.

And the way the book, the music, the dancing and decor blend, there doesn't seem to be any apparent reason why "Adam" shouldn't be the first Miller production to make the long trip to Broadway!

The musical is scheduled for a three-week run at the Miller, but if the reception warrants it, the run will be extended.

David Hooks plays the title role with a warm, gentle touch reminiscent of the style of Frank Morgan. Even in the small, converted cinema palace, arena theater, his singing voice is a little less than adequate; but since his better songs are reprised, his wonderful touch in the acting is all that can be wanted.

Memorable Performances
Although Hooks fills his job almost to the brim, it will be Bonnie West and Henri Noel, who also

First Original Musical Gets Fine Production

commodate the audience with the most memorable performance. Miss West will not be remembered only because the statusque redhead parades as Eve in bits of grape vine and grapes draped strategically about her person but because she is a wonderfully sensuous dancer and because she can belt out songs in the trumpet-clear tones and immaculate enunciation of the best Ethel Merman manner.

Ringed Baritone
Noel, happily assigned to point up the score's better songs, supplied the musical highpoints of the show thanks to his ringing baritone.

Joan Ehemann, a delicately lovely person, stops the show with her winsome, classic dancing to lift herself out of the anonymity of the chorus.

Karen Morrow, a Miller regular, gives a slapdash Betty Hutton treatment to Adam's playful helpmate and J. Talbot Holland is properly pompous and meddlesome as his alter ego. However, Mary Schager falls short of making the most of the interesting role of Enigma — all women of all time — and her blues song "Just to Say 'Hello'" failed to get the showcase it seemed to have deserved.

The book of "Adam" is a light, sharp treatment of an idea that perennially crops up when men wonder how the Creator could have placed so many obstacles in the way of happiness.

Adam is introduced as a public square agitator with a cure-all; fire a cannon loaded "negations," destroy the world and create a golden world according to his own plans. However, when he finds himself alone on earth and commissioned to start over he forgets his plans and ad libit himself into trouble.

Wonderous Woman
He creates a wonderous woman, Eve, who will have nothing to do with him. Then he creates his "ideal" man, who turns out to be a German - accented Caesar wanting to fight so much he can't even bother with Eve. A cuddlesome helpmate proves too demanding and reintroduces jealousy into the world; so he creates an alter ego to organize his creations and an enigmatic helpmate for the ego.

The alter ego propounds the evil of property descension and demands equal creation time. The ego produces the masses while Adam continues with the ideal historic figures that come to his mind.

Creations Clash
The personalities and the masses clash, spurred on by Caesar, and in a "peace" conference the creators are voted out of existence and the world is saved from a second destruction only by the personification of hope, faith and charity. Finally the inherent goodness in people wins out and the Creator is returned to His proper place of respect.

Threaded on this string is a galaxy of tenuous, brightly worded songs by Lawent that may very well find their way to hit parades. Chief among these are the love songs, "Please Marry Me," "May be the Next Time" and "Things Happen." Watch for them!

Belted Hits
Bonnie West's belting introduces "I'm Not the Marrying Kind," which is self explanatory, and "That's the Way It's Gonna Be," an evangelistic, rhythm shout.

"This Way of Life" is a rousing march that could join the lists of patriotic tunes—a list that could stand some additions.

Dialogue bits of puff also show signs of possible popularity. "Too Much Love and 'It All Depends.'" Ballet of Creation

The entire-act ballet is an ambitious effort to explain the story of creation. It is danced by Miss West, sensuously; Miss Pat Marquardt, tempestuously; Miss Ehemann, tenderly, and Karoly Bartha, virilently.

Robert Simpson has supplied the choreography and Robert Paine Gross has created a fabulous set of lights, flowers and even water. Virginia Randall on the organ and Neil Martin, percussionist, interpret Lawent's music. The show is colorfully dressed by Frances Kosbab, who defied the laws of gravity in devising Miss West's wardrobe.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and at 7 and 10 p.m. on Saturdays with a 2 p.m. Wednesday matinee. The 110-mile trip is worth it!

Actress' Career Dragging Until 'Elmer Gantry' Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Burt and the producer, Bernie Lancaster wants to talk to you Smith, were for me from the about a movie," said Shirley; they had seen me do a TV Jones' manager. "I don't know what the role is, but it might be a shady lady. So dress sexy and look old."

From just such beginnings are one else in mind. Oscars won. That's the way it started for the winsome Miss Jones, whose film career was getting the role without making a dragging until she played the racy test, though I would have been Lulu Baines in "Elmer Gantry," willing to make one. day of shooting."

She convinced him — and the Academy voters it was one of the notable switch-castings of recent times, her turning from musical comedy heroine to fallen woman. It also gave her a whole new film career to replace one that had been drifting.

Not that she is going to specialize in portraying tainted butterflies. Matter of fact, she is now back in the musical comedy dodge, playing Marian the librarian in "Music Man."

The musicals almost did her in, as far as films. She won immediate fame by being chosen by Rodgers and Hammerstein as their film Laurie in "Oklahoma!"

When she finished "Carousel," her studio, 20th Century-Fox, told her it had no films for her—"because we aren't planning any musicals." She protested that she could do non-musicals, but to no avail.

State May Halt Part of Jail Operation

have to work from breakfast to past dinner. The next would come on and work through the supper period. The third would be on duty over night. The fourth would be available to fill in for days off, sickness and vacation. Verhulst's letter said he inspected the jail April 21 and found, through checking registration cards, that female prisoners had been held overnight in the jail with no matron on duty as required by law.

Met With Board
He said he first made the county aware it was operating contrary to state statute on May 24, 1960. He said he appeared July 7, 1960, at a meeting of the county board's Public Property committee when supervisors agreed the county would provide matron service to comply with the law.

In August, 1960, he wrote a complaint was received by Gov. Gaylord Nelson in regard to matron service at the Outagamie jail. Sheriff Robert Heinritz said he had informed the County Board of the situation involved in the statute but nothing was done.

The county currently employs one matron on a full-time basis. Since the first of the year 16 female prisoners have been booked into jail. Not all of them, however, had to stay overnight.

Market Rally Continuing

More Than Erase Losses Taken in Monday Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—A continued stock market rally early this afternoon more than erased the remainder of the losses taken in the sharp Monday setback. Trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.30 at 243.50 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .70 and utilities up .90. Key stocks throughout the list rose from fractions to well over a point. More volatile issues among electronics and other speculative fields ran up several points.

High-priced International Business Machines was a 10-point gainer.

Motors, oils, rails, utilities, chemicals and nonferrous metals were among the gainers.

Polaroid was up about half a dozen points, Varian Associates more than 3. Gains of points or better were made by Lionel, Magnavox, Zenith, Philadelphia & Reading, Brunswick, American Machine & Foundry and Tractor Supply.

American Tobacco fell around a point. DuPont and Goodyear were fractional losers. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.66 at 684.75. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds advanced.
